WHEREAS, the State of South Carolina faces a difficult situation with respect to the distribution of home heating fuels and other petroleum supplies in the coming winter months; and

WHEREAS, there exists a discrepancy in the law regarding weight limits on the primary road system and the Interstate Highway system which increases the difficulty and cost of transporting home heating fuels and other liquid petroleum products; and

WHEREAS, efficient moving of full loads traveling on the most expeditious routes will further our goal in maintaining an equal system of distribution throughout South Carolina;

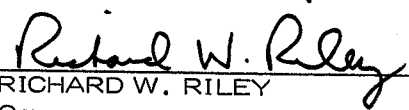

NOW THEREFORE, pursuant to Act 217 of the Acts and Joint Resolutions of 1979, after consultation with the Joint Legislative Committee on Energy and with the approval of a majority of the members of the Budget and Control Board, I hereby declare that there exists an emergency with regard to the allocation, distribution and sale of petroleum products, particularly home heating fuels; and
