Nicole and Brennan,

MyrtleBeachSC.com would like to thank you and WBTW news for helping us highlight issues around safe ocean water quality in the city of Myrtle Beach this week.

As a follow up, our team just now put this "solutions oriented" response online:
<http://www.myrtlebeachsc.com/myrtle-beach-water-quality-treating-and-filtering-storm-water/>

It is currently driving strong activity to our website.

From what readers are saying online, it is clear that the problem is not a crisis (as we have continually reported, but others have said), that no beaches have been closed (as we have reported ongoing) and the problem is very fixable.

We love stories like these because they support public health, public safety, our environment and holding local government fully accountable.

Our Best,
