 scstateparks There's nothing like a mama bear and her cubs! Check out this family spotted near Table Rock State Park. 🐻 If you're at a park and spot a bear, here are a few #RangerTips to remember: 📢 Admire them from a distance and never feed or throw food at them. 📢 Keep your children or pets close to you. 📢 Do not run away, bears have a chase instinct. Always face the bear and back away slowly. 📢 If it approaches, yell, wave your arms, bang pots and try to scare it away, playing dead does not work. As always, be sure to properly dispose of your trash while at the park. This will help keep bears and other unwanted creatures away. 📷 📱: @stonethrownart mrsbclark34 How often do people come across bears at the parks in SC?

at 23:20:17 on 7/08/2021 UTC

dancingwithgrux36 @ourbreathinwinter @sarahbeth506 that mama bear has her paws full with them little fur balls😊 scstateparks @alisonrauch Just did some digging. Although it's pretty common for bears to produce a litter of 2, scientists are saying litters of 3-4 are becoming more common!

thekathyhouston Aww, it's a Catholic bear.

scstateparks @evanstiner of course! There are soooo many tips to help with protecting both bears and people, these are just a few. 😊 Dispoing of your trash property properly and storing away food is also a key tip!
