Holly, I left you a voicemail about this, but what I am wondering is whether we still want to file the motion for summary judgment early next week (as originally planned), in light of recent developments in Brussels and in the General Assembly.

The motion and memo in support are almost finished, and I have the DSS person's supporting affidavit, but the position to be taken is that the issues in the case are the exclusive province of the federal government, which they clearly are.

Let me know what you think about the timing when you get a chance.

Thanks,

Ken
