March 21, 2016
San Francisco, California
Dear Nikki,

While we still have a few seats available, we are following up to be sure you received your invitation to attend Women in Technology on March 21 at 6 PM at the Nasdaq Entrepreneurial Center in San Francisco. Space is filling up, so we are reaching out to you with the hope that you will confirm your attendance and secure one of the few remaining spots.

The evening will begin with a reception and dinner, followed by a discussion, moderated by Nikki Waller, the Journal's Global Management Editor. The program will feature a panel of senior leaders who will discuss how their companies are finding solutions to the challenges affecting women in technology today. Industry-led insights from the McKinsey & Lean In Women in the Workplace research will also be presented during the evening.

Confirmed participants include:

- Padma Warrior, Chief Development Officer and U.S. CEO, NextEV
- Carl Bass, President and CEO, Autodesk
- Elissa Steele, CEO, Jive Software
- Eric Kutcher, Managing Partner, Western Region Americas, McKinsey & Company.

The panel will also feature a Q&A session led by McKinsey & Company Partner, Lareina Yee.
