Subject: Re: Our Article of Tonight CITY DISPUTES DHEC SITE

To all,

After getting input from those who chose to contribute, we have now summarized where DHEC and the City stand for our readers:

We still await any word from the city of Myrtle Beach or Mark Kruea.

Thanks,

Sincerely,

Dear Governor Haley,

We found remarks on the city of Myrtle Beach website today that refutes the DHEC website of the State of SC.

We put this article on our website tonight:

<http://www.myrtlebeachsc.com/city-finally-speaks-accuses-dhec-of-inaccurate-water-quality-reporting/>

I can personally say that Jim has been very helpful and transparent. He has provided a treasure trove of information and returned every call.

We have yet to see any evidence that the city has to refute their claims on this website and no one from the city of Myrtle Beach has ever returned any of our many emails.

We have also not heard from the testing team at Coastal Carolina University that the Chamber claims tested the entire City Coastal area on Sunday, March 6th. <http://www.myrtlebeachsc.com/myrtle-beach-summer-2016-swim-advisory-forecast/>

We welcome both the city and DHEC to add any comments to our article posted this afternoon.

We will add those remarks tomorrow when we update this story. As this has now become a high interest news item, members of our group today reached out to the team at Virginia Tech who did the water quality testing in Detroit.

It is imperative that everyone knows the truth of these matters.

Sincerely,

David Hucks
