Office of the Governor

Governor Haley:

The two presumptive nominees for President of the United States are not about "united" but divisive politics. Both have high "unlikable" ratings. I am worried that if either becomes President this country could experience civil unrest.

There are two politicians from the South who have the personalities, character, and values that could unite this country. You Governor Haley and Senator Tim Scott come to mind. Your backgrounds represent everything that is good about America. I believe that either of you or the both of you working together could become a viable 3rd party ticket that could win the White House for 2016.

I was impressed, Governor Haley, how you handled the very contentious issue of the Confederate flag. I listened to your speech and came to appreciate your skillfulness to empathize with the very powerful sentiments from both sides of that issue. You were able to communicate respect for the past and a hope for the future without needing to condemn the beliefs of any one group. You were able to validate hot passions and yet find a path to move on.

Senator Tim Scott is able to articulate conservative values which contradict the Left's narrative that conservatism is inherently racist. Senator Scott's genteel demeanor, patience, and apparent regard for people is the perfect remedy for the divisive Alinskyite tactics of President Obama and Secretary Clinton and the demeaning, provocative rhetoric of Trump.

Our country must unite around a leadership team that is likable, compassionate, and able to find the "common ground" to bring about constructive reform for our broken nation. Please consider becoming the antidote to the destructive politics of Trump or Clinton and the Leftist policies of Obama. We need a 3rd party alternative Presidential ticket to save us. Please win the White House for 2016 and make this country remember the great state of South Carolina (once Confederate, once rebellious, once racist) as blessing this Nation with leadership that "united" us, gave us hope and brought us through a difficult period.

Thank you for taking the time to consider this proposition.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey A. Wolfe
