Governor Nikki Haley News:

Post and Courier: Summerville boat builder to add 150 jobs

<http://www.postandcourier.com/article/20140718/PC05/140719365/1010/summerville-boat-builder-to-add-150-jobs>

Warren L. Wise

The boating industry continues to crest with the more-buoyant economy. At least 450 new jobs have been announced over the past two months near Summerville as two boat builders expand.

Note: Gov. Nikki Haley hailed the expansion as another example of "the strong entrepreneurial spirit" in South Carolina.

WCIV: Boat manufacturer expects to bring 150 jobs to Dorchester County

<http://www.abcnews4.com/story/26054488/boat-manufacturer-expects-to-bring-150-jobs-to-dorchester-county>

According to the company, which manufactures saltwater fishing boats, the 74,000-square-foot facility located on 113 Isaac Way in Summerville will be expanded by approximately 116,000 square feet to accommodate growing demand of the company's product line.

Note: "Sportsman Boats is a great South Carolina company and represents the strong entrepreneurial spirit the people of our state have," said Governor Nikki Haley. "We commend their $3.5 million investment, which will create another 150 jobs in Dorchester County and look forward to their continued success in the Lowcountry and throughout South Carolina."

Times and Democrat: Sportsman Boats Manufacturing to double size of Dorchester operations

A boat manufacturing company is expanding in the Lowcountry, adding 150 new jobs. Sportsman Boats, which makes saltwater fishing boats, is more than doubling its existing plant in Summerville. The company announced Friday that it is investing $3.5 million to expand its 74,000-square-foot plant by 116,000 square feet.

Washington Post: Scott Walker wants Common Core repealed

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/govbeat/wp/2014/07/18/scott-walker-wants-common-core-repealed/>
Reid Wilson

Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker (R) on Thursday called on the state legislature to repeal Common Core education standards, becoming the latest Republican governor to oppose a program that has become a lightning rod for conservative activists.

Note: Republicans chafed at the new standards, which some activists see as a federal overreach, despite the program's genesis among the governor's association. "It's now being pushed as if it's a D.C. issue," South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley (R) told The Washington Post in an interview last year.

South Carolina News:

Associated Press: SC jobless figure unchanged for 3rd straight month

Bruce Smith

The Obama administration on Friday opened the Eastern Seaboard to offshore energy exploration, causing concern in the Carolinas about the effect on sea creatures and tourism but also raising the prospect of new jobs and revenue. The administration announced sonic cannon that generate sound waves 100 times louder than a jet engine can be used to locate energy deposits beneath the ocean floor

Post and Courier: Senator to address state's open records laws

<http://www.postandcourier.com/article/20140718/PC1603/140719307/1382&source=spreed>

Cynthia Roldan

Two recent rulings by the South Carolina Supreme Court contradict a 30-year trend of interpreting the state's Freedom of Information Act to enhance citizen access, a prominent media attorney said Thursday. The state Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that autopsy reports are not public records.

Post and Courier: Palmetto Sunrise: Education standards task force deadline today

<http://www.postandcourier.com/article/20140718/PC1603/140719372/1382&source=spreed>

Cynthia Roldan

When lawmakers passed the law that required the cyclical review of the state's education standards no later than Jan. 1, 2015, they made it mandatory for the Department of Education to assemble a task force of "parents, business and industry persons, community leaders and educators, to include special education teachers," to review the standards.
