Subject: Network of Care outreach for behavioral health and early intervention is now the most successful program in the nation

The highly acclaimed Network of Care Web site, in partnership with NASMHPD and NACBHDD, first launched in California, is now in almost 500 counties and 27 states. Its emphasis on making service and support information easily accessible for consumers and family members has made the Network of Care the strongest, most widely used local outreach tool for early intervention in the country. Learn more in this brief YouTube video.

With strong support from virtually all of the national associations in behavioral health, the Network of Care has quietly and successfully spread throughout the country and is seeing significant success.

"As head of the emergency outreach team, I can tell you that the Network of Care should exist in every single county and be at the reach of every single crisis outreach worker in America," said Katherine Rovendro, Director of Service Development with the Anne Arundel County, Md., Crisis Response Team. "There is nothing like it. It has transformed our work. It has saved lives. It needs to be nationwide."

As behavioral health is again in the news as a real issue faced by so many communities, the Network of Care for Behavioral Health is becoming even more important as one strategy that can make a difference.
