

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20170425South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10155248619553166

South Carolina State Parks

at 19:05:03 on 4/25/2017 UTC · 🌐

Did you know that the Lowcountry's famous sweetgrass baskets are part of the thriving Gullah culture? Gullah is a creole culture, developed by enslaved Africans brought to South Carolina. Initially these baskets were used for processing rice and other plantation tasks. Over time they have become a decorative art form. Learn more about Gullah people and their traditions at Hampton Plantation State Historic Site! <http://southcarolinaparks.com/hampton>

Tags: hidden

Kathryn Martinko But if you are white and from the South and proud of your ancestors....then,of course....you are a bigot!

at 19:53:30 on 4/25/2017 UTC (hidden)

Randall Shirey Hampton Plantation is awesome but bring a lot of bug spray to really enjoy it.

at 21:11:13 on 4/25/2017 UTC

J.d. Feagin The baskets are beautiful works of art. But I hate the thought of razing all the historic plantations.

at 1:48:49 on 4/26/2017 UTC