Approximately 50 National Guard personnel will be kept on State Active Duty status to make emergency repairs to multiple impassable roads in Clarendon County and to help with boating operations for the breached dams at the Columbia Canal. Both Clarendon County and the City of Columbia requested the National Guard's continued assistance, which is expected to be completed before Thanksgiving.

To date, the National Guard has completed 350 missions statewide, including leading helicopter, boat, and high water vehicle rescues, transporting meals, water, and sandbags, and conducting security and traffic control checkpoints. Of the mission total, 125 missions have been conducting emergency road restoration missions to county roads to support public safety and mobility – these engineering operations have been executed in Bamberg, Calhoun, Clarendon, Georgetown, Kershaw, Lexington, Richland, Sumter, and Williamsburg Counties.

Today, Governor Haley issued Executive Order 2015-28, placing certain National Guard personnel on state active duty to help local governments make emergency repairs to infrastructure due to flood damage, and Executive Order 2015-29, waiving certain federal regulations for commercial truck drivers to expedite recovery operations after the flood.

Brian – Please add these to the website today. Thank you!
