The Governor and staff need to be at Owens Field at 8:00 Sunday morning. After the safety briefing and boarding the aircraft we will take-off at approximately 8:15. The flight time to Spartanburg is about 45 minutes. They need to dress warm because it will be cold on the helicopter until they take-off.

Once on the ground, we will move to the gymnasium at Wofford for the ceremony at 10:00. The Guard will provide the ground transportation unless SLED wants to move the Governor. We will initially go to the VIP holding area to mix and mingle. Usually, these types of ceremonies only last about 30 minutes at most.

Regarding the "Read to Me, Cherokee" project, we are asking attendees to consider donating a children's book as they enter the event. This is a project sponsored by Leadership Cherokee (a community group sponsored by our Chamber). The project is to encourage early childhood reading. If the Governor is willing to participate, we would like to have sign a children's book and place it in the donation box with our Chamber photographer documenting the moment. We would later donate the signed book to the Cherokee County Public Library to be used as another opportunity to promote the Library's summer reading program and early childhood education.

Since its inception in 1965, its philosophy has been based on a commitment to help students develop to their fullest potential academically, aesthetically, emotionally, morally, physically, socially and civically. The faculty of Jefferson Davis Academy strives to help its students reach this maturity by nurturing their individual gifts, providing vigorous training in the tools of learning, and offering opportunities for creative work and self-discipline. It is in this atmosphere promoting human growth and development, where excellence and responsibility are encouraged and expected, that we seek to develop our young people into citizens capable of meeting the challenges of future society.

SCWC Goals include: Develop a diversity of women leaders by providing opportunities for personal and professional development. Build networks of women in order to develop future opportunities individually, for our communities, our region and our state. Boost civic engagement, to include running for political office and serving on boards and commissions. Increase philanthropy and community stewardship. Office and the South Carolina business community. It is one of the oldest and most respected of the statewide leadership programs. Leadership South Carolina provides gifted and highly motivated South Carolinians an opportunity to advance their leadership qualities while broadening their understanding of issues facing the state.

Each year, approximately 55 individuals are selected through a competitive process for participation in Leadership South Carolina. Applicants may be nominated or may apply directly for admission to the program. The selection committee places major emphasis on the individual's demonstrated abilities as a leader and on their personal past record of service in a leadership capacity. The program seeks to maintain a balance reflective of the demographic composition of the state.

Opportunities for personal growth include assessments of learning and leadership styles

Notes:

LIBERTY DAY, observed on March 16, is the anniversary of the birth of James Madison, "Father of the Constitution."

On or near the anniversary, a group of students and adults (parents, teachers, principal, representative from the Ruritans) from Sandy Run School in Representative Ott's district (District 93 – Calhoun, Orangeburg, Lexington) travel to Columbia for a tour of the State House and recognition by the SC House of Representatives. This year the students plan to visit on Wednesday, March 16. Past governors have proclaimed March 16 as LIBERTY DAY, and have provided a lovely proclamation for the students to take back to the school. We respectfully request that Governor Haley proclaim March 16, 2011, as LIBERTY DAY. The 2011 anniversary marks the 260th anniversary of birth of James Madison. The proclamation may be delivered to Representative Ott's office (335 Blatt) or I will be glad to pick it up from the Governor's Office.

Ms. Deidre Crow, Deputy Director of Economic Development, International Trade Liaison, City of Columbia

Ms. Anita Patel, Director of Research, ECI-Find New Markets, Columbia, SC

Mr. Otis Rawl, President & CEO, South Carolina Chamber of Commerce

Katherine B. Smith was appointed Consul General on June 4th, 2009 for the Bahamas Consulate General in Atlanta and the Southeastern United States. Smith was appointed by The Right Honorable Hubert A. Ingraham, Prime Minister of The Commonwealth of The Bahamas. She is The Bahamas' first Consul General to the new consular office which includes the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, and Tennessee.

Prior to her appointment as Consul General, she served as a Senator and Parliamentary Secretary in the Office of the Prime Minister in Freeport, Grand Bahama; her portfolio responsibilities included Bahamas Information Service, the Broadcasting Corporation of The Bahamas and administrative overview of the Office of The Prime Minister.

She has held several Senior Management positions with a number of Grand Bahama based companies; The Grand Bahama Port Authority, Hutchison Ports and Properties Division, Atlantic Beach and Lucaya Golf and Country Club, and Running Mon Marina and Resort. Her areas of expertise include; Public Relations and Marketing, Human Resources, Hotel Operations, and Business and Economic Development.

Smith has always demonstrated her commitment to public service in the Bahamas; a former Local Government Councilor; she has served as a member of the Board of the Public Hospitals Authority and also served as Chairman of its Human Resources Committee; as an avid softball player and sports administrator she is a Past President and Fast Pitch Chairman of the Grand Bahama Amateur Softball Association, former Secretary-General and Director of the Bahamas Softball Federation, and a former member of the Bahamas National Ladies Softball Team. Smith has represented the Bahamas as both an administrator and player on behalf of the Bahamas Softball Federation in the United States, Canada and Central and South America.

No stranger to politics, she has served as Past President of the Free National Movements Women's Association of Grand Bahama; has been instrumentally involved in working in several local and national election campaigns in The Bahamas; and her first appointment to the Senate in 2001 brought gender equality to the Senate for the first time in the Chamber's history.

As an advocate for breast cancer awareness she is concerned about the number of cases of breast cancer in women in her community of Freeport, Grand Bahama and initiated a program now called STEPS (Sisters Taking Effective Precautions), which was established to assist women who are unemployed and have no health insurance to pay for mammogram testing. The program is now in its fourth year.

Smith has degrees in Journalism and Management from Palm Beach State College and DeVry University.

She is married to Godfrey Smith Director of Port Operations at Freeport Container Port and the mother of 2 girls and 1 boy.

Per KatherineContact:

Tom's cell (703) [REDACTED]

Notes:Tom Davidson, CEO

Tom Davidson picked the "CEO" slip out of the hat at a recent EverFi staff party and has yet to be fired by the Board of Directors. Davidson ran for the Maine State Legislature while a senior at Bowdoin College in 1994 and spent the better part of three terms working to bring education technology to students in the Pine Tree State. As Chairman of the Utilities and Energy Committee, Davidson led a successful effort with Governor Angus King to provide laptops to every Maine seventh grader as well as to create a major expansion of the wiring of schools and libraries across the State.

After deciding that he needed to tell his children one day that he actually once earned a paycheck, Davidson left the Legislature in 2000 and began investing in early-stage technology companies in the education and social media spaces. He was a Venture Partner with Village Ventures, a network of venture capital firms across the U.S. Davidson graduated from Bowdoin College devoid of any academic honors of any consequence.

Mrs. Denise Cherry wrote the Governor in late January inviting her to come and visit the students during the month of March for Women's History Month. NH should be prepared to discuss her roles as governor and requested in the letter: "setting obtainable goals and what it takes to achieve in life, and also the students want to know what Rena and Nalin think about your new role as leader of the state". There will be 165 students in attendance, they have chosen to participate in extended learning time during the normal spring break week.

Extended Learning Time is intended to provide additional learning days for students in grades K-10, who are experiencing challenges in mastering academics. The purpose is to provide twenty additional instructional days, above and beyond the regular school calendar, so that students may strengthen their foundational skills in Reading/English Language Arts and Math. Extended Learning Time focuses on students who have not yet met standards on the State's accountability tests and district assessments, who have failed courses that lead to graduation, and for students who are not making adequate progress in their classes to meet grade level standards or course requirements.

Bluffton Middle School was built in 2010 as a state-of-the-art facility. Originally planned to house Grades 6-8, the school opened in August 2010 with 800+ Grade 6 and 7 students from the four existing elementary schools.

JoAnna Conlon

Cell: 404- [REDACTED]

Re: Minister Barker will be visiting the country along with a delegation of UK business leaders, comprised of senior-level representatives from leading UK businesses (i.e. manufacturing, chemicals, retail, clean energy). Would like to share ideas and best practices on maintaining competitiveness in a sustainable economy and to build US-UK relationships, particularly in green energy.

Background:

Gregory Barker, Minister of State, UK Department of Energy & Climate Change

Gregory Barker MP was appointed Minister of State in the Department of Energy and Climate Change by Prime Minister David Cameron in May 2010. He has a broad ranging portfolio including energy innovation, including marine energy, and the green economy, green jobs and skills agenda.

Gregory Barker graduated in History, Economic History & Politics from London University in 1987 and has over ten years experience of working in the City of London. In 1988 after working at the Centre for Policy Studies with David Willetts, he trained as smaller companies analyst and subsequently became a Corporate Finance Director of the Australian owned International Pacific Securities, specializing in cross-border mergers and acquisitions.

In 1997 Gregory Barker became an Associate Partner of the leading financial public relations firm, Brunswick Group Ltd. The following year he was appointed head of International Investor Relations for Sibneft, a major Russian oil company, where he helped lead the company's drive to modernize in the post Soviet economy and open up to Western markets. He returned to Britain in May 2000, to continue as a director of Bartlett Scott Edgar, the recruitment advertising business, of which he helped lead a "management buy-in" in 1998. The company was sold to TMP Worldwide in 2001.

Gregory Barker was elected Conservative Member of Parliament for Bexhill and Battle in his native Sussex in June 2001. He served on the House of Commons Environmental Audit select committee between 2001 and 2005. He was appointed to the Opposition Front Bench as a Conservative whip in 2003.

Gregory Barker was appointed Shadow Minister for Climate Change & Environment in December, 2005 and led the passage of the Climate Change Bill through the House of Commons in 2008 and was a key author of the Conservative Party's 'Low Carbon Economy' green paper, launched in January 2009. In October 2008 he was promoted to Shadow Climate Change minister in the new Shadow Department of Energy and Climate Change.

NH should be prepared to discuss economic development and continued working relationship with Irish companies. Clarke Thompson will walk Consul Gleeson over to the office.

Paul Gleeson was announced as Ireland's first Consul General in Atlanta by Irish Taoiseach (Prime Minister) Brian Cowen in July 2010. He took up office the following month and began the job of establishing Ireland's first new Consulate in the United States since the 1930s.

A graduate of Trinity College Dublin and the London School of Economics, Mr. Gleeson joined Ireland's Department of Foreign Affairs in 2001. He has served at the Embassy of Ireland in South Africa (where he had responsibility for reporting on political developments in Zimbabwe); at the Permanent Representation of Ireland to the European Union in Brussels; and at Ireland's Mission to the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) in Paris.

Prior to taking up his post as Consul General in Atlanta, Mr. Gleeson had responsibility for North-South cooperation within Ireland's Department of Foreign Affairs, helping to implement the all-island aspects of Ireland's landmark 1998 Good Friday Peace Agreement. He has also worked in support of Ireland's development cooperation and aid programmes in Mozambique and Lesotho.

Away from work, Paul is a fan of most sports, particularly football (soccer) and hurling. At university, he was Auditor (President) of the Trinity College Historical Society, the oldest undergraduate debating society in the world. He won the prestigious Irish Times Debating Competition and was a finalist at the World University Debating Championships.

Paul is married to Alita Byrd. They have two sons, Zach and Daniel.

Home: 843- [REDACTED]

Cell: 843- [REDACTED]

Notes:

NH will present the SC Mother of the Year Award to Marianna Black Habisreutinger of Spartanburg. Pronounced "Habbis," like "hobbies" with an "s" not "z" sound; "roy" as in "Roy Rogers;" "tin" like the metal; "ger" with a hard "g" as in "girl." You will present a certificate and pin signifying the distinction (provided by the committee).

Reminder – Rep. Eddie Tallon and members of the Spartanburg delegation will be on hand to present a House resolution in her honor at the request of the Habisreutinger family.

Press has been invited by the Committee/will go out on public schedule.

Mrs. Habisreutinger was named S. C. Mother of the Year from nominees statewide by the S.C. Mother of the Year Search Committee, a standing committee of the S. C. Association of American Mothers Inc. Each year a deserving S. C. mother is selected who demonstrates the AMI purpose "to strengthen the moral and spiritual foundation of the family and the home" as evidenced by her children in the development of their character and by the community she serves. She competes with state Mothers of the Year from across the country, District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico for American Mother of the Year at the AMI National Convention.

Her primary focus in the community has been on education, health care, and the arts. She presently serves on the boards of USCUpstate, Spartanburg Methodist College, Storm Eye Institute of the Medical University of S. C., Ellen Hines Smith Girls Home, Cancer Association of Spartanburg and Cherokee Counties Inc., Wellvista Advisory, Mary Black School of Nursing Advisory, Friends of the Arts, and the J. C. Stroble Glaucoma Foundation.

She is a founder, trustee, and lifetime board member of Charles Lea Center Foundation which supports the Charles Lee Center for mentally and physically challenged. The Foundation sponsored her nomination as SCMOY.

For more than 20 years she was a trustee and chairperson of the Mary Black

April 04, 2011 ContinuedMonday

Foundation Board and Mary Black Memorial Hospital. She served as president of the Junior League of Spartanburg, chair of the Spartanburg County Foundation, and a member of the Board of Visitors of the Medical University of S. C., as well as chair of St. Luke's Free Medical Clinic and Urban League of the Upstate. She is a lifelong member and leader of First Presbyterian Church and a former public elementary school teacher.

The new SCMOY is quick to say that her favorite role has always been as mother to her two sons and daughter who have followed her example in community service, and to her two grandchildren. She has achieved a remarkable balance of the responsibilities of parenthood and community service. Her husband Roger, a native of Switzerland, shares in her dedication to their family and to serve others.

The Habisreutinger children, all residents of Spartanburg, are Anna H. Converse, married, mother of two young children and an interior designer; Paul, single and a general contractor; and Charles, husband of an anesthesiologist and a real estate investor.

Easter Egg Hunt -- Mansion Complex

Staff:

Blanche and Emily

Background:

The Easter Egg Hunt has been hosted in previous years by the First Lady- this year it is being hosted by the First Family. It is partnered with Palmetto Children's Hospital. They invite all the patients that have been in the hospital this past year (or are still currently a patient) and their immediate family to attend. Chantsie said that some kids are in good health now, but there are some who have cancer or are frail (they invite all patients).

The event is from 4:30 to 6 p.m. and takes place in the Boylston Gardens. Volunteers in Action and the Junior League volunteer and donate the Easter eggs and also place them in the gardens. The Mansion provides sugar free and regular cookies/lemonade and water for the guests. The MC (Joe Pinner) will begin at 4:30 and just welcome everyone- if the first family would like to get up and say a few words they would love that but it is not required from them (Just let me know). Afterwards the hunt will begin and typically lasts about 20 minutes. Afterwards, there will be a photo line (Rob is going to ask Zach to come out) and go for however long the First Family likes but the event ends at 6 p.m.

BACKGROUND:

Teacher of the Year Award, it is a voluntary program open to each public school district, the Palmetto Unified School District, the Department of Juvenile Justice, and the South Carolina Public Charter School District. Participation is near universal in the program.

April 27, 2011 ContinuedWednesday

Typically each of the public district schools nominate a Teacher of the Year and the district holds a separate contest for a single winner. Each of the district candidates is screened and 25 are put forward to be reviewed by a screening committee to narrow it down to the final five.

Of the five finalists, a winner is chosen and announced at a dinner here in Columbia.

Since 1991, the Teacher of the Year has participated in a one-year residency with the Center for Educator Recruitment, Retention, and Advancement (CERRA) at Winthrop University. The Teacher of the Year also receives $25,000 and use of a BMW X6. The four Honor Roll teachers (finalists) receive $10,000 and each District Teacher of the Year receives $1,000.

The Teacher of the Year is sponsored by SC Future Minds and all proceeds for the dinner go back to SCFM for the next year's event. All of the nominees will meet at the Marriott prior to the dinner and participate in a parade to the Convention Center. Dr. Zais will speak briefly to all of the nominees. He will also speak at the dinner and will be on stage to read the winner.

Background information:

"De Gorostiza," is a difficult name to say, by any standard. Today, Alan cannot only say his last name fluently, but talks a blue streak, reads above grade level, is a proud, fully included Kindergarten student with many friends, a love of Halloween, a soccer team, quite a sense of humor, a winning smile and a new penchant for pizza.

Things were once not so easy for Alan, or the De Gorostiza family. When he began in the preschool class for children with autism spectrum disorders he began seeing a speech-language pathologist. He had no functional system of communication. He used maladaptive behavior to manipulate his environment. He demonstrated little joy or interest in others. He ate Stage I baby food and drank from a bottle, only when presented by his mother. His skin had an orange hue due to the large quantity of baby food he consumed. There was a lot of work to be done.

Alan had been diagnosed with autism at 28 months of age with doctors giving his mother little hope and even less information, but if Alan is the SCSHA Ambassador, his mother, Ketzie, built the Embassy. She is the mother who every therapist from any discipline dreams of working with as a team, and team is what Ketzie insisted upon. After receiving Alan's diagnosis, Ketzie researched her options and began a regiment of home ABA and private therapies, including speech-language therapy twice weekly. At age three Alan began school, where in addition to his home and clinic based services he received classroom instruction in my full-day program, as well as school-based bi-weekly speech-language and occupational therapy services. Everyone worked together diligently to meet Alan's needs.

After Alan's first few months in the school program, he began to use a number of signs to communicate, use a visual schedule to make transitions, hold his bottle independently to drink and allow me to feed him his baby food with a spoon. Times were still tough, but Alan was making progress. By the end of the 2008-2009 school year, Alan was using a variety of signs, imitating simple vowel and CV sounds and beginning to use a small number of true words consistently to make simple requests; however, his intelligibility was poor due to evident difficulty with the coordination and strength of his articulators. He was drinking independently from an open cup, eating a variety of finger foods and self-feeding with a spoon and a fork. Since he was eating more than baby food, he had lost his orange pallor and began to engage in joint attention activities, smile reciprocally and enjoy activities in the school environment. It was difficult at the end of the school year to tell Alan's mother that I had decided to make a career change and would not be his teacher the following year.

Soon after, the Speech Pathologist transitioned to providing Alan home-based speech and language therapy services. In this capacity they began an apraxia-based approach in which Alan excelled, acquiring new words and improved articulation and language skills daily. Each goal set was achieved quickly and Alan continues a high rate of skill acquisition to this day. The day Alan spontaneously told his mother, "I love you," was the day I knew there was no holding Alan back. The developmental pediatrician released Alan from her care and he demonstrated success in Four-Year-Old Kindergarten with minimal support during the 2009-2010 school year. This year, Alan attends Kindergarten unassisted.

As a military family, The De Gorostizas have faced deployments and moves. Throughout long absences of Alan's father, Ketzie has forged on, even deciding to stay in the Charleston area while her husband commutes to and from Virginia to provide stability and consistency in Alan's educational and therapy program. Through hard work, determination and pure dedication and love, Alan's family has provided him with everything he could possibly need in the way of therapy and consistent follow through with every recommendation made. Alan's success is a product of not only his hard work, the collaborative advice and guidance of a myriad of therapists and consistent speech and language therapy, but the hard work, sacrifices and love of his family - Mom, Dad and younger sister, Katie.

At the age of five, Alan is one of the happiest and hardest working young men we know. We couldn't be prouder to nominate him as the 2011 SCSHA Ambassador. His success is a testament to the benefits of early intervention, professional and family collaboration, intensive speech-language therapy and love. Tears of sadness have become tears of joy, and many have been shed. While Alan still has room for further growth in his speech and

Mr. Rosen had hoped that it would be Clemson who bought it so it could remain a part of ICAR. The Governor said she was making calls to different automotive companies to recruit business and this site could be an option. The Governor offered to get Cliff and Bobby Hitt in the same room to talk about it - and clear up the bad blood they have because of the lawsuit many years ago.

SITE INFORMATION:

The Governor will speak at a podium set up outside on the Statehouse steps.

BACKGROUND:

Prayer has been an important part of our nation's history. This coming Thursday, May 5th is the 60th Annual National Day of Prayer observance. There will be citizens from all walks of life and positions of authority across this nation who will be observing this day by participating in local gatherings. This year's theme is, "A mighty fortress is our God", based on Psalm 91:2, "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my Fortress, my God in whom I trust."

We can start by standing in unity and praying for those affected by the severe weather that is plaguing our nation in the form of storms, tornadoes, flooding, and fires. We can pray for our farmers who will be going into the fields and for their safety during this spring planting season and for an abundance of crops to help feed our nation and the world. We can pray for our communities, that we come together in unity to lift each other up and support those in need. We can pray for our local leaders to have wisdom in their decision making, and strength to face the challenges before them. We can pray for our schools, for our teachers and administrators, for the parents, children and families for their well being and overcoming the financial crisis they find themselves trying to solve. We should be praying for our school board, for them to have strength, to seek wisdom and guidance before and during all decision making. Pray for our local business men for wisdom in business decision, for their workers and their families, for abundance and prosperity to keep this community alive and thriving. We can pray for our judges, our law enforcement, our government, our President, that they would have wisdom and discernment in all decisions. Give them strength in the task of keeping us safe, abiding by and overseeing our laws, keep them safe from harm and give them the strength under pressure and burdens. We can pray for the safety and protection of our military, protection at our borders.

The National Day of Prayer is an annual observance held on the first Thursday of May, inviting people of all faiths to pray for the nation. It was created in 1952 by a joint resolution of the United States Congress, and signed into law by President Harry S. Truman.

Press Conference: SC Business One Stop Accomplishments -- Statehouse
EVENT: Press Conference: Governor Haley, Jim Etter, and the SC Executive Steering Committee to focus on SC Business One Stop accomplishments
DATE: Friday, April 6, 2011
TIME: 10:00 AM
LOCATION: Statehouse lobby
DRESS: Business
STAFF: Blanche Price and Taylor Hall (will provide brief)
MICHAEL ATTENDING: No

PURPOSE: The SC Business One Stop has existed for the past six years, and the filings on the state have increased from 1 to 90. The Department of Revenue has results and statistics that show that the program has made a positive impact on business and agency efficiencies. We can support these statistics with specific costs, filing data, and survey data.

INVITED BY: Department of Revenue

INTRODUCED BY: Jim Etter

LENGTH OF SPEAKING ROLE: Not determined speaking time

PRESS: Yes

PUBLIC: Yes.

BACKGROUND:

This press conference is to showcase SCBOS as one of the premiere programs of state efficiency. The SCBOS program was launched in May of 2005, and has exponentially grown during the last five years. As of October 2010, SCBOS began processing Wage and Contribution Reports for SC DEW. In January, 2011, SCBOS began processing Business Personal Property Returns for SC DOR. The results for the state are staggering.

For SC DOR, SCBOS in two months of processing Business Personal Property Tax Returns, has saved 12.5 months of man-hours in processing time. This amounts to $641,000 in yearly savings for SC DOR for just 1 filing type. From the business perspective, the money savings are conservatively estimated at $5.5 million a year. One of the largest Business Personal Property Tax Return filers from Pitney Bowes said "What would have taken months to complete was finalized in less than two weeks once the file was put on the new SCBOS system."

The SCBOS Executive Steering Committee would like to highlight SCBOS' recent successes and promote the use of this system which supports five state agencies through its web portal business to government filing process. SCBOS is planning to have representatives from small, medium and large businesses to make statements on how using SCBOS has helped their business in SC.

The members of the SC Executive Steering Committee are:

James Etter, Executive Chair, DOR

John Finan, DEW

Mark Hammond, SOS

Bobby Hitt, Commerce

Doug Calvert, DHEC

Carri Grube Lybarker, DCA

TALKING POINTS:

- Thank you for doing business in South Carolina – you are supporting thousands of jobs and helping our citizens eat the freshest food possible.
- See above for conversation topics.

BACKGROUND:

Agribusiness includes over 200,000 jobs statewide and is growing. Every $1 invested yields $132.00 in economic impact. Every $1 invested also creates $11.80 in new tax revenues.

Some success stories:

Palmetto Sweet Onion – began as a pilot effort with 2 acres in 2009. Last year we had approximately 65 acres and went to retail market with volume for the first time. Several retailers used the product. SC Consumers loved the product and now we have over 100 acres planted in 2011 and have already seen additional retailers become involved in purchasing and promoting this new product this season. Acreage has the potential to grow even further as local retailers promote the product and as more consumers find out just how good this product taste. This is investment in new acreage in a new crop that did not exist 4 years ago.

Dairy – The local movement and Certified SC Grown have spurred several dairies in the state to begin producing and bottling “Certified SC Grown” milk. These local items are now on the shelf with the “big boys” and feature the Certified SC Grown logo. Several retailers are already supporting these smaller producers and opportunities do exist to expand this niche market in milk. Promotional opportunity also exist at retail to let consumers know that in addition to store brand products and major labels, locally grown milk is being made available to consumers as retailers understand that there is demand for the product and they want their customers to know that they support local producers.

PROJECT BACKGROUND:

CertusBank, National Association (CertusBank NA) is a newly chartered bank subsidiary of start-up bank investment group Blue Ridge Holdings, Inc. The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency granted Blue Ridge Holdings a shelf charter in October 2010, and CertusBank was created in January 2011.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

- Blue Ridge Holdings (Blue Ridge) is a holding company established for the purpose of buying failed or distressed banks at bargain prices. Blue Ridge expects to acquire banks along the Interstate 85 corridor in North and South Carolina and Georgia and also in northern Florida.
- Blue Ridge hopes to have up to $5 billion in assets in two years and $15 billion in five years.
- The venture is backed by $500 million in capital from New York hedge funds.
- On May 20, 2011, CertusBank acquired two failed banks in Georgia, Atlantic Southern Bank in Macon with 16 branches and First Georgia Banking Co. in Franklin with ten branches. Assets of the two banks total close to $1.5 billion and include one branch in Florida.
- Blue Ridge and CertusBank are led by experienced bankers. CEO and president Milton Jones Jr. is a former Bank of America regional president with a background in retail banking. Walter Davis, chief credit officer, is a former executive at Wachovia and is a native of Greenville. COO Charles (Charlie) Williams is also a former executive with Bank of America.
- Williams also co-founded Integrated Capital Strategies LLC, an asset management and consulting firm, in July 2009. Jones joined the firm in September 2009 when he retired from Bank of America.

OPERATIONS

- Blue Ridge is officially headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia but also has an office in Charlotte.

Economic Development Meeting -- Governor's Office

GKN, a well known, global OEM serving the aerospace industry, is seeking a location in South Carolina. The SC location is critical in that they can serve Boeing, Gulfstream, Spirit Aviation and Honda Jet from here. We have worked through significant issues including financial and logistics to get to this point and feel that we are at the cusp of obtaining a firm commitment. The company will be reviewing the proposed site in Orangeburg and will be bringing in its decision team management for their first site visit (project managed to date by Mike Mullis, a consultant). We would like to introduce them to state senior leadership, including the Governor.

The objective of this meeting is to let the company know that they have access to senior state leadership and that our leadership is very aware of the importance of this project. This would be a welcome/thank you meeting as opposed to an issue-related meeting.

BACKGROUND:

Issues important to the group are Oncology and Medicaid. Per Marisa, they recently met with Tony Keck and they are not thrilled with the direction things are going so they are considering stepping away from accepting Medicaid patients.

South Carolina Oncology Associates (SCOA) is the only comprehensive cancer treatment center in South Carolina that provides medical, radiation and gynecological oncology plus important patient support services like diagnostic radiology, infusion therapy, hospice and research - all under one roof.

South Carolina Oncology Associates is dedicated to the field of cancer research. Believing that research holds the key to making advances in cancer care, SCOA physicians and research staff are involved in clinical trials that allow our patient volunteers access to the newest medications and therapies being developed. Clinical research staff, including certified oncology research nurses, data managers, and other support staff, provides research volunteers with the extra level of monitoring and care that clinical trial participation requires. In order to expand treatment options and gain greater access to clinical trials that will better serve the Midlands of South Carolina, SCOA recently became a strategic site with the Sarah Cannon Research Institute in Nashville, TN. Through this affiliation, an expanded number of trials will be available. These important studies give our physicians multiple treatment options that might not otherwise be available. They also can profoundly impact the lives of generations to come.

Over the coming months we're going to push forward to do X,Y,Z. Grassroots leaders like you are extremely important in the process, so I encourage you to get involved. You have a powerful voice for change...." then a small party plug at the end.

Governor Nikki Haley today announced plans for her administration's first "State Financial Summit." The summit will be a chance for ratings agency officials and state leaders to discuss the current and future fiscal condition of South Carolina. The last summit was held during Governor Sanford's first term and June's will include discussions on the state Medicaid program, unemployment trust fund, retirement and other post-employment benefits for state employees, and South Carolina's overall economic condition.

OTHER INFORMATION:

The South Carolina Criminal Justice Academy is proud to announce the grand opening ceremony for expansion of the Academy. The Village will mark the first significant expansion of the physical facility since 1988 and will greatly increase the Academy's ability to train criminal justice personnel.

First conceived as an idea by then new Director Hubert F. Harrell in 2008, the Village will consist of a full sized gymnasium for physical training and defensive tactics training, a full service kitchen and dining facility with seating for 192, a classroom building containing four large 65 seat classrooms and two 35 seat classrooms and a four story, 208 bed dormitory. The dormitory will be constructed of prefabricated concrete, again chosen for low cost compared with traditional construction as well as ease of construction, durability and energy efficiency.

All new construction for the State must comply with LEEDS requirements for energy conservation and green construction. The Village will be the first State project of this magnitude to meet the stringent LEEDS Silver standard. Meeting the requirements for LEEDS was made simpler due to the type of construction chosen.

Now completed, the Village will enable the Academy to change the way in which new law enforcement officers are trained in South Carolina. At present, all new officers must attend the 9 week Basic Training program. Additional bed space and additional classrooms will enable the Academy to extend Basic Law Enforcement Training to 12 weeks. The initial 12 week Basic Training Program will be accompanied by 4 weeks of recommended structured training at a new officer's agency by a Field Training Officer once a recruit finishes the Academy, thus providing a sixteen week BLE program in its totality.

Funding for this project came entirely from a $5 surcharge on court fines levied throughout South Carolina. The total cost of this project is going to be approximately $14.5 million.

The keynote speaker for the event will be Governor Nikki Haley. Also expected to be in attendance will be Senator Michael Fair, Representative Michael Pitts, Representative Gilda Cobb-Hunter, and South Carolina Public Safety Director Mark Keel.

BACKGROUND:

AMR Corporation - American's Parent Company

At the company's annual meeting in May 1982, stockholders approved a plan of reorganization under which a new holding company, AMR Corporation, was formed and became the parent company of American Airlines. The reorganization took effect on Oct. 1, 1982. The formation of AMR had no effect on day-to-day operations of American, but it did – and still does – provide the company with access to sources of financing that otherwise might not be available. The holding company structure also allows the company to take advantage of appropriate new opportunities. The name "AMR" was taken from the airline's three-letter New York Stock Exchange trading symbol. It simply stands for "American."

Today, AMR is the parent company of both American Airlines, Inc. and American Eagle Airlines, Inc., and has a number of businesses and key facilities within its corporate structure. The company is also a founding member of the global oneworld Alliance. All aspects of the airline's worldwide activities are overseen from AMR's Corporate Headquarters campus in Fort Worth, Texas. AMR's businesses and key facilities include:

Corporate Headquarters Campus

Located in two modern office buildings along Amon Carter Boulevard in Fort Worth's CentrePort commercial park, AMR's headquarters occupies a total of about 1.4 million square feet and is home to more than 4,300 employees. The Headquarters was relocated to Fort Worth from New York City in July and August of 1979. Just a few minutes south of DFW International Airport, site of American's largest connecting hub, the Headquarters is at the heart of the airline's global route network, an important advantage in managing what is truly a worldwide enterprise.

American Airlines

Founded in 1930, American Airlines, formerly American Airways, Inc., was the result of the consolidation of more than 80 small airlines into The Aviation Corporation. American Airways, Inc. officially became American Airlines, Inc. in 1934, the same year C.R. Smith became president of the company. The airline began trading on the New York Stock Exchange on June 10, 1939. Originally headquartered in New York City, where it continues to maintain a strong presence, American moved its headquarters to Fort Worth, Texas, in 1979 and has since become one of the largest airlines in the world, contributing nearly $100 billion to the U.S. and international economies. It has helped create more than 900,000 jobs worldwide, and supported approximately 1,400 non-profit organizations worldwide. American and its regional airline affiliates, American Eagle and the AmericanConnection airlines, serve approximately 250 cities in over 40 countries with, on average, 3,400 daily flights. American's network covers points throughout North America, the Caribbean, Latin America, Europe and the Pacific.

American has five major cornerstone markets: New York, Los Angeles, Dallas/Fort Worth, Chicago O'Hare, and Miami where its network resources are concentrated and which connect some of the largest U.S. population centers for business travelers and are international gateway cities. American's "Transcon" services between cities on the U.S. East and West Coasts have long been important non-hub flights. In 2009, about 38.8% of American's flying was international – Latin American and the Caribbean, 18.7%; Europe, 15.6%; and Pacific, 4.5%. The combined network fleet numbers almost 900 aircraft. In 2009, American carried approximately 85.7 million passengers, about equal to one-third of the U.S. population. American and American Eagle have nearly 88,500 full-time and part-time employees worldwide. Approximately 67% of AA's employees are represented by one of three labor unions – Allied Pilots Association, Association of Professional Flight Attendants, Transport Workers Union.

On an average day, American Airlines alone will...

Fly about 275,000 passengers
Receive more than 239,000 reservations calls.
Handle more than 300,000 pieces of luggage.
Fly about 3,400 flights.

Cornerstone Strategy

On Sept. 17, 2009, AMR announced plans to strengthen its network by reallocating capacity to hubs in Dallas/Fort Worth, Chicago, Miami and New York and enhance its fleet to better serve customers. These four cities, along with Los Angeles, serve as the cornerstones of the company's network. The cornerstone strategy not only enhances AMR's domestic network but improves the company's ability to connect passengers globally, through our own flights and those of oneworld alliance partners.

oneworld's Network Strength

American Airlines is a founding member of the global oneworld® Alliance, bringing together 11 of the world's biggest and best airlines and 20 affiliate carriers, enabling them to offer their customers more services and benefits than any airline can provide on its own. Together, oneworld's members serve nearly 700 destinations in over 150 countries and territories.

Between them, oneworld's member airlines:

Serve 800 airports in nearly 150 countries, with some 8,750 daily departures.
Offer nearly 550 airport lounges for premium customers.
Carry more than 340 million passengers a year.
Employ more than 300,000 people.
Operate almost 2,500 aircraft.
Generate some US$100 billion annual revenues in total.

Trans-Atlantic Joint Business Agreement

On July 20, 2010, American Airlines, British Airways, and Iberia received final approval from the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) to create a joint business governing flights between North America and Europe and will expand their global cooperation as a result of receiving antitrust immunity. Customers can travel more easily on the three airlines' combined route network that will serve 433 destinations in 105 countries with 5,178 daily departures, providing more frequent and convenient schedule options for customers than any of the three carriers could offer individually. By working together, the airlines will expand customer choices as well as offer numerous benefits, including expanded opportunities to earn and redeem frequent flyer miles and elite tier benefits and continued reciprocal airport lounge access.

Trans-Pacific Joint Business Agreement

In February, 2010, American Airlines and Japan Airlines (JAL) filed an application with the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) for antitrust immunity to forge a closer relationship and implement a joint business agreement governing the operation of their flights between North America and Asia. On October 6, 2010, the DOT issued a Show Cause Order granting American Airlines and Japan Airlines tentative antitrust immunity approval and permission to operate a joint business across the trans-Pacific. American and JAL will coordinate fares, services and schedules and by more closely integrating their networks, the airlines will continue to offer customers reciprocal frequent flyer benefits, and eligible customers will continue to have access to the airport lounges of both airlines. Through the joint business, the two airlines will offer a fully-integrated network between trans-Pacific gateway airports, ensuring all customers a robust global airline alliance from which to choose, and more options for time-sensitive business travelers. Antitrust immunity between American and JAL is made possible by the Open Skies accord reached by the United States and Japan in December 2009.

American Airlines Cargo

American Airlines Cargo, a division of American Airlines, Inc., provides over 100 million pounds of weekly cargo capacity to major cities in the United States, Europe, Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean, Latin America and Asia. AA Cargo provides one of the largest cargo networks in the world, with cargo terminals and interline connections available across the globe. Utilizing the cargo capacity of the passenger fleet, American Airlines Cargo facilitates the shipping of many product types including fresh flowers, fruit, vegetables, seafood and life-saving pharmaceuticals. The cargo business has an international focus, comprising approximately 12% of international revenue, and 4% of total AA revenue.

American Eagle

In 1984, American Airlines established American Eagle as its regional airline affiliate. The American Eagle network is now one of the largest regional airline system in the world, connecting passengers to and from American flights at its hubs and other key cities. It operates more than 260 aircraft with more than 1,500 flights a day and serves more than 160 cities throughout the United States, Canada, The Bahamas, Mexico and the Caribbean. In 2009, American Eagle alone carried about 19 million passengers, connecting about 9 million passengers to and from American flights. American Eagle has more than 12,000 employees.

Key American Airlines Facilities

American Airlines Training and Conference Center

The American Airlines Training and Conference Center is located in the Dallas/ Fort Worth area, just minutes south of Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport. When the Center first opened in 1957 as the American Airlines Stewardess College, it was one of the first facilities in the airline industry for the centralized training of airline cabin attendants. Through the years, the Center's role has evolved dramatically. Still American's base for training flight attendants, the Training and Conference Center is now also designed to encourage learning and professional growth without distraction for companies and organizations of all kinds. The Center is available for conferences, team-building programs and catered events. The facility includes:

- 75,000 square feet
- 75 training and conference rooms
- A 300-seat theater
- 299 guest rooms including 7 suites
- 5 executive board rooms
- 7 aircraft cabin simulators for flight attendant training
- American Airlines Flight Academy

Opened in 1971 just south of Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport, the American Airlines Flight Academy is an institution dedicated to safety in air travel and is the center for all pilot training activities at American and American Eagle. Recognized by the aerospace industry as one of the finest flight training facilities in the world, the Flight Academy operates 365 days a year and on any given month, has more than 900 AA pilots visit for training. The Flight Academy houses a total of 27 highly advanced cockpit simulators for training on each aircraft type flown by American and American Eagle, all the way up to Boeing 777. Each year, American's and American Eagle's pilots "fly" millions of very challenging training miles. Without ever leaving the ground, pilots are tested and challenged with literally thousands of emergency scenarios and malfunctions to ensure safety and prepare them for any eventuality. American also leases certain Flight Academy pilot-training facilities to other airlines. The Flight Academy's 27 full-flight simulators include:

BACKGROUND FROM COMMERCE:

As far as Vivian's interest as it relates to the China conference she wants to organize, I don't have much on it so far except that the Hyatt on Main St. in Greenville has been put on hold for the dates of November 13-15. Vivian's and Hal Johnson's goal is to turn this conference into a Southeastern U.S. regional conference setup like the current SEUS-Japan and SEUS-Canadian Provinces Alliance Conferences that alternate countries each year. I am certain that Vivian will want the Governor to speak at the conference and will likely ask her during this meeting.

BACKGROUND:

Throughout our country's history, Americans have felt profound appreciation and gratitude for the dedication and sacrifice of our troops and their families. The USO provides a tangible way for all of us to say thank you, as it has for 70 years.

Thanks to your generosity, the USO fulfills its mission of lifting the spirits of America's troops and their families. Through the USO, you touch their lives through an extensive range of programs at more than 160 locations in 27 states and 14 countries, and at hundreds of entertainment events each year. Thousands of USO volunteers do everything possible to provide a home away from home for our troops and to keep them connected to the families they left behind.

The USO makes sure your help goes to those who need it the most: troops serving in combat, their families, our wounded warriors and their families, and families of the fallen. As a nonprofit, non-political organization, the USO is now, and always will be, about our troops. Wherever and whenever they go, the USO will be there, until everyone comes home.

Our Mission Statement: The USO lifts the spirits of America's troops and their families.

We will work by these core values:

DATE: Tuesday, July 12, 2011

TIME: 11:00 AM

LOCATION: Governor's Office

CONTACT:

J.J. Darby

[REDACTED] Mobile

[REDACTED]

DRESS: Business

STAFF: Tim Pearson and Rob Godfrey

MICHAEL ATTENDING: No

PURPOSE: The Governor should be prepared to answer questions proposed by NFIB members wide ranging from the economy, small business, and to the legislative session.

INVITED BY: NFIB

INTRODUCED BY: JJ Darby, President, NFIB will be managing the call from an offsite location.

LENGTH OF SPEAKING ROLE: 45 min.

PRESS: No

PUBLIC: Yes

BACKGROUND:

Here's a look at challenges facing small businesses in South Carolina:

Oppose efforts to undermine the state's right-to-work laws: NFIB/South Carolina responded quickly when the National Labor Relations Board took steps to force Boeing to locate its second 787 Dreamliner assembly line in Washington State instead of a new, nonunion factory in South Carolina. In a public statement, State Director J.J. Darby called the government's actions "overreaching" and said, "People shouldn't have to join a union to get a job, and companies should be allowed to make their own decisions about where and how to run their businesses."

Improve access to affordable healthcare: Healthcare remains one of the greatest challenges facing small businesses. Nationwide, fewer than half of all small businesses offer health insurance to their employees. NFIB/South Carolina supports measures to create a state income-tax credit for small businesses that provide health insurance for their employees and allow small businesses to buy basic health insurance policies that don't include all of the costly mandates required by the state. We're also committed to preventing the federal healthcare overhaul from hurting South Carolina's small businesses. NFIB/South Carolina is representing the state's small businesses on the Governor's Health Exchange Planning Committee to make certain that any changes made to comply with the federal law will only lowers costs and increase access to insurance.

Pass objective standards for workers' compensation awards: NFIB/South Carolina supports efforts to reform the workers' compensation system, reign in runaway attorney fees and require objective standards when determining a claimant's award.

Limit government spending: State government should live within its means and save for rainy days – just as small businesses do. This requires meaningful caps that would prohibit runaway spending and dedicating reserves to specific functions of government such as infrastructure, education or refunds to taxpayers.

Below is the dial-in information for the NFIB SC teletown hall

Dial: 877-229-8523

Passcode: 32739

As we discussed, the teleconference firm would like someone to dial in from the Governor's office a few minutes early (it only needs to be about 5-10 minutes ahead of the call) in order to get any audio problems worked out.

The agenda is pretty straightforward:

- Dialing of NFIB SC members begins at 11:00 AM (3 minutes)
- Introduction, NFIB SC State Director J.J. Darby (5 minutes)
- Remarks, Governor Nikki Haley (10 minutes)
- Q&A (15 minutes) - these will be pre-screened. I'll introduce the member and his/her line will be taken off mute for the question.
- Closing (1 minute)

We should be wrapped up no later than 11:45.

12:40 PM - 12:50 PM

Extreme Home Makeover - Blue Ridge Log Cabins
Haley bullets

There are so many things a governor is blessed with the opportunity to do in office, but for me, none is more gratifying than the opportunity to talk about the great economic opportunities we have here in South Carolina. And specifically, I look forward to times like this when I can help shine the light on an innovative, growing South Carolina company.

Tens of millions of people worldwide watch every episode of Extreme Makeover: Home Edition. It is a show that in many ways represents the best of our country: regular, everyday people coming together to help a neighbor in need. And it has also features the best of our country's businesses – highly successful, highly enterprising companies lending their resources to the community – corporate citizens of the highest order.

So I am very proud – we all should be very proud – that a South Carolina-based builder, Blue Ridge Log Cabins, has been recognized as just such a company and will be featured on what I have been told will be a very special episode of Extreme Makeover: Home Edition this fall. Like everyone outside a very small circle of people at Blue Ridge and Extreme Makeover, I do not know who has been selected to receive this home – but I do know that whoever these special people are, they will benefit the rest of their lives thanks to a company that represents the best of South Carolina.

Even in a state known the world over for its manufacturing ingenuity – from Milliken to BMW – Blue Ridge is a unique company. With a relentless focus on innovation and technology, Blue Ridge has come to be known as a leader in their market. From their state-of-the-art facility in Spartanburg County, Blue Ridge makes dreams come true one homeowner at a time, building dream log homes for customers nationwide. For two years running Blue Ridge has been named one of the fastest growing privately held companies in the nation by Inc. magazine.

And now the entire world will soon have the chance to learn what we here in South Carolina have known for a while – that Blue Ridge Log Cabins and their visionary President Chip Smith are special. What Chip won't tell you but what I will is that Blue Ridge is responsible for funding this entire project. And while the people who will benefit the most directly from this project may reside in Fayetteville, I like to think that thanks to Chip and his team at Blue Ridge, it's going to be a South Carolina export that makes

Be Green Packaging produces 'green' packaging for companies such as Whole Foods and Gillette and in April announced that it would open a new facility in Ridgeland. The company plans to invest at least $7.3 million in Jasper County and expects to generate at least 175 new jobs over the next five years, with the potential of more jobs and investment added during that time.

"The people of this state have the heritage, backgrounds and experience that will provide our company with the skills and resources for producing products made from sustainable plant fibers. The local agricultural community will benefit from Be Green as the crops and byproducts they grow in this region will be used as feedstock in our packaging material," said Ron Blitzer, co-founder and CEO of Be Green Packaging.

The public is invited to attend the welcoming ceremony.

"We are extremely excited to welcome Be Green Packaging to Jasper County and the Lowcountry, and believe this venture will be beneficial to both the company and the community," said Palmetto Electric Cooperative CEO Tom Upshaw. "Jasper County and the surrounding communities are prepared to welcome Be Green with open arms and do all that we can to ensure their success in this region."

Be Green Packaging LLC, based in Santa Barbara, Calif., manufactures and distributes Cradle-to-Cradle certified, tree-free, compostable packaging for the food and consumer packaging industries. The company's products are made from annually renewable plant fibers that are safe for people and healthy for the planet. BACKGROUND:

CVS Caremark, Greenville Rec and Boundless Playgrounds announce today the official grand opening of a new, inclusive playground at Greenville Rec's Pavilion Recreation Complex in Taylors, South Carolina, providing access for all children, including those with disabilities, to play together. Construction of the playground is supported by a $50,000 grant from the CVS Caremark Charitable Trust, as part of the CVS Caremark All Kids Can Program – a commitment to enrich the lives of children with disabilities. The playground will be unveiled today by the Honorable Nikki Haley, Governor of South Carolina, during the grand opening ceremony.

"We are thrilled to celebrate the opening of the first Boundless Playground in South Carolina, a feat that wouldn't be possible without the commitment and dedication of CVS Caremark, Boundless Playgrounds and the Greater Greenville Parks Foundation," said Mike Teachey, Director of Community Relations, Greenville County Recreation District. "Today's grand opening ensures that children of all abilities will now have the opportunity to enjoy this new playground."

For two days in May, more than 100 community volunteers including CVS Caremark employees helped construct the playground which is designed to maximize play for everyone, regardless of ability. Boundless Playgrounds promote inclusive, unstructured play with ramped wheelchair access to the highest platforms and accessible pathways made from special rubberized surfacing. Swings with high back support make this popular activity easily accessible. Creative play panels, music elements, climbers and slides help create a space where every child can develop imagination, physical fitness, and social skills.

"Our goal with All Kids Can is to help all children succeed in life. Playgrounds like this one have a real impact on a child's physical and emotional development and we're thrilled to help create an environment that allows all children within the community to learn and grow together while playing side-by-side," said David Purdy, Area Vice President, CVS/pharmacy. "We're excited to celebrate the opening of the first Boundless Playground in South Carolina. As we work to build inclusive playgrounds in communities across America, we hope our partnerships are as strong as the one we share with Greenville Rec – this playground would not have been possible without their support and dedication."

Funding for the playground was also received from the Graham Foundation, the Barbara Stone Foundation, Strange Brothers Grading, Arbor Engineering, Inc., and an anonymous donor. The total cost for the project is $255,000.

CVS Caremark All Kids Can is a program of the CVS Caremark Charitable Trust and CVS Caremark. Since 2006, more than $4 million has been donated by the Charitable Trust to Boundless Playgrounds which has resulted in the building of more than 60 Boundless Playgrounds nationwide.

Kelly Holdway, Scheduler
[REDACTED]

Background:

Both of Ron's parents were born and raised on farms. Their work ethic and small-town values were naturally passed along to their own children. As a result, Ron has worked hard all his life. As a boy, he mowed lawns, shoveled snow, delivered papers, and caddied for a few extra bucks. At the age of 15, he obtained his first tax-paying job as a dishwasher in a Walgreen's grill. He rose through the ranks as a soda jerk, fry cook, and finally night manager before reaching the age of 16.

He gained early acceptance to the University of Minnesota, so he skipped his senior year of High School and worked full time while obtaining his degree in business and accounting. In 1977, after graduating with a BSB-Accounting degree, he married his wife Jane, and started working as an accountant at Jostens. He also continued his education by enrolling in an MBA night program.

In July of 1979, Ron and Jane moved to Oshkosh to start a business with Jane's brother. The company -PACUR- began producing plastic sheet for packaging and printing applications. Ron has been building the same business for the last 31 years. From operating the equipment, to keeping the company books, and selling its products, Ron has been involved in every function of the business. It is this body of experience and private sector perspective that he now brings to the Senate.

Ron came to Washington because the federal government is bankrupting America. He thinks it is important for citizen legislators to ally with those who are seriously facing that reality. Ron's manufacturing background has taught him to attack the root cause of a problem, not mere symptoms. He believes huge deficits, slow economic activity, high unemployment and woefully inadequate job creation are severe symptoms of the problem – but not the root cause. The ever expanding size, scope and cost of government is.

Ron serves on the committees on Appropriations, Budget, Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs and Aging. He resides in Oshkosh, Wisconsin with his wife Jane. They have three children.

MOS, MFLC, AOS, One Stop, United Way

An ISFAC operates as a grassroots forum and can function effectively at a region, state or local community level to connect all stakeholders in support of the military in their designated area. Many ISFAC's are alive and well in the United States and Territories. An additional benefit of an ISFAC is increased communication of community resources to benefit all community members bringing a sense of increased community cohesion.

What Is An ISFAC?

An ISFAC is a voluntary military-community cooperative or partnership organized to allow service providers to engage in networking and connect Service and Family members, Veterans, Wounded Warriors with local military and community resources.

ISFAC Goals

The primary goal of an ISFAC is to strengthen and develop Family assistance delivery support programs and networks. To leverage the resources of all committee members and organizations in support of military families as they mobilize, deploy, or respond to natural disasters. This ISFAC guide is to increase community capacity and sustainment for years to come. It also promotes a sense of community spirit to support the families of military, Veterans, and Wounded Warriors. Military families contribute to our nation and our communities.

Suggested goals for an ISFAC:

- Improve coordination and reduce duplication of support services provided by all government and non-government organizations and community support agencies

Tuesday

- Ensure communication of all services to family members.
- Establish a community contact registry and mapping of community support partners to maintain current information of available support services
- Establish a local charter to institutionalize organizational roles and responsibilities.
- Identify and communicate with community leaders and installation commanders for active-duty, National Guard and Reserve components and anticipate the impact of deployment on the community and its members (before, during and after deployment) 5IBID, pg 1.
- Build awareness about Service-connected family continuum of services needs to include quality of life issues, urgent life needs, and contingency plans for natural disasters worked one million or more safe work hours without a lost-time injury or illness.

It's very hard and rare to achieve 4 million safe hours and especially in construction and as quickly as they have worked to build the Boeing site. This achievement is testament that management and the workers at the Boeing site are proactive about the health and safety of all workers. As we say, we want every S.C. worker to return home in the evening to their families as healthy as they were when they left for work that morning.

DNC Paints GOP Field With Tea Party Brush

The Wall Street Journal // Katie Glueck

Published at 12:25 PM ET

The Democratic National Committee is out with a new Internet ad that lumps all of the Republican presidential hopefuls under the tea party banner, part of the party's emerging strategy for the 2012 campaign.

The spot opens with a black screen with white letters stating: "This past week was a very good one for the tea party." It includes a clip of former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney saying at the Iowa State Fair that "corporations are people, my friend," a comment the DNC has used to hammer him over the past week. It shows clips of Thursday's debate in Ames, and touches on the Iowa Straw Poll results and Texas Gov. Rick Perry's decision to join the race.

Wednesday

Most of the ad focuses on a scene from the Republican presidential candidates' debate last week, during which everyone on stage said they would walk away from a deficit-cutting deal that had a 10-1 ratio of spending cuts to tax increases.

The DNC's kicker: "GOP 2012: putting the ideology of the tea party first."

About

The Spirit of Liberty Foundation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit foundation, was formed to raise funds and to assist in the restoration and maintenance of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. Now that the restoration is complete, and as a result of 9/11, the Foundation's mission is to share Liberty with America and to create high profile, national programs to reinforce the meaning and symbolism of American liberty for all our citizens and the world.

In 2005 the Foundation's name was changed to the Spirit of Liberty Foundation to reflect it's broader mission – to enhance the meaning of Liberty and to support our Armed Forces and their families, with emphasis on Wounded Warriors and Families of Fallen Heroes.

Its headquarters are in San Diego and is governed by an independent board of directors and trustees. Many of the trustees are among the original Official Sponsors of the 1986 Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island Centennial effort. The Trustees are successful Americans from all walks of life who believe Liberty is America's and the World's most important asset.

HERMAN CAIN BIOGRAPHY

Herman Cain grew up in Atlanta, Georgia with loving parents and little else. His father worked three jobs—as a janitor, a barber and a chauffeur—and his mother was a domestic worker. Even though these jobs required hard work and little glamour, his parents knew this life was better than the dirt farms upon which they grew up. They also knew that this hard work was the key to achieving their American Dreams.

Herman's parents had two dreams. First, they wanted to own their own house. Secondly, they wanted both of their children to graduate from college. During the segregation era in the Deep South, these aspirations might have seemed lofty, but they knew that if they kept their faith in God, faith in themselves and faith in the greatest country on the Earth, they could achieve.

The first dream was realized in a modest brick house on Albert Street in Atlanta, Georgia. After years of saving from his many jobs, Herman's father surprised the whole family, even his wife, by purchasing a home for their family. The second dream was realized when Herman graduated from Morehouse College with a degree in mathematics in 1967. His brother, Thurman, would go on to graduate from Morris Brown College.

Inspired by the work ethic and character of his parents, Herman continued his education by earning his Master's degree in computer science from Purdue University while working full-time developing fire control systems for ships and fighter planes for the Department of the Navy. Though Herman enjoyed using his talents as a civilian employee for the Navy, he gravitated towards the culture of business.

Herman returned to his home of Atlanta to begin working as a computer systems analyst for the Coca-Cola Company. After considerable success at Coca-Cola, he moved to the Pillsbury Company. Within a short period of time, Herman rose to position of Vice President. Although the comforts of a corner office on the 31st floor of a majestic corporate building seemed satisfying, Herman knew that he needed a challenge.

He became the regional vice president of Pillsbury's Burger King division. This meant starting from the "ground up," dodging grease fires and broiling hamburgers. Herman was assigned to lead a low performing region of 450 of their restaurants. Within three years, it became the best performing region in the company.

Energized by overcoming the many obstacles of his job at Burger King, Herman took on the biggest challenge of his career. He accepted the call to become the President and CEO of Godfather's Pizza, a company that was teetering on the edge of bankruptcy. In just 14 months, Herman returned Godfather's to profitability and he led his management team to a buyout of the company.

His professional successes garnered the respect and admiration of industry peers who named him the President of the National Restaurant Association. Under Herman's administration, the group grew significantly and began to lobby for the interests of America's restaurateurs and small business owners.

In 1994, as head of the National Restaurant Association, he had the opportunity to speak with President Clinton during a nationally televised town hall meeting. Here, Herman challenged the President regarding the impact on businesses if his health care overhaul proposal were passed. President Clinton attempted to assure him and the millions of viewers watching at home that his legislation would not harm American business owners and their employees.

Herman was skeptical. "Quite honestly Mr. President, your calculations are incorrect," he said. "In the competitive marketplace, it simply doesn't work that way." His words echoed across America, and Newsweek named Herman Cain the primary saboteur of Hillarycare.

Thursday

Through these and other appearances on behalf of the National Restaurant Association, Herman began working with business leaders across all sectors of the American economy. This led to his acceptance of a position on the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, and he was subsequently elected their chairman. In this role, he analyzed economic conditions in the region and notified the Federal Reserve of how their policies should respond.

Most recently, he hosted a radio talk show, "The Herman Cain Show," on Atlanta's WSB 750 AM/ 95.5 FM. He serves as a regular contributor on several broadcast networks and as a keynote speaker at conferences and events around the nation.

Despite the many professional commitments of his life, Herman continues to enjoy most the time spent with family and friends. As his children got married and had their own children, he knew that he had an extraordinary obligation to do what he could to make this a safe and prosperous nation for them. The paramount joys in his life are his wife, Gloria, his children and his grandchildren.

BACKGROUND:

The Department of Commerce and York County announced that The PermaShrink Company Inc., a textile services company with over 50 years of worldwide industry experience, will locate its new state-of-the-art manufacturing facility in York County. The $3.3 million investment is expected to generate 16 new jobs over the next five years and was announced in December 2010.

The recruitment of the PermaShrink Company was a joint effort led by York County Natural Gas Authority and involved the Town of Clover, York County Economic Development and the South Carolina Department of Commerce.

The PermaShrink Company will establish its new production facility in the Westgate Industrial Park located in Clover. The plant will manufacture SanforSet® rubber shrinking belts, used to pre-shrink textile fabrics for cloth manufacturers in 82 countries around the globe. Over 95 percent of production is destined for export to some 2,000 customers on six continents.

Executives of The PermaShrink Company are well known in the textile industry for providing a complete range of products and services to worldwide customers engaged in the preshrinking (sanforizing) of textile fabrics.

The PermaShrink Company provides a range of services to textile companies as well as products for textile pre-shrinking machines. Services include equipment evaluation, training, certification, and technical assistance.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS:

- This announcement by PermaShrink represents the jobs of the future for South Carolina – manufacturing high quality products for worldwide distribution.
- When international competitors like PermaShrink have a manufacturing presence in South Carolina it enables us to recruit more companies in the coming months and years.
- York County has always been a great business destination and this announcement goes to show what this growing community has to offer.

Gail McGovern: [REDACTED]

FYI: Leigh will call NH's cell to connect.

SCHEDULING CONTACT:

Sandy Hightower, Columbia Red Cross Office

PURPOSE:

The national president for the American Red Cross, Gail McGovern, has asked to have a call with NH. The purpose of the call is to make introductions and establish a direct contact – much like the call to the FEMA administrator. This is important for having the resources we would need in case of a disaster.

BACKGROUND:

About Gail McGovern, President and CEO of the American Red Cross:

- Gail J. McGovern joined the American Red Cross as president and CEO on April 8, 2008.
- In 2000 and 2001, Fortune magazine recognized her as one of the top 50 most powerful women in corporate America.
- During her first few years at the American Red Cross, she initiated steps to invigorate the $3.3 billion organization, including dramatically reducing its deficit and streamlining its operations.
- Prior to this job, she taught at Harvard Business School, served as president of Fidelity Personal Investments, served as executive vice president for a division at AT&T.
- McGovern is currently a member of the board of trustees of Johns Hopkins University and the board of directors of DTE Energy.

About the American Red Cross:

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies nearly half of the nation's blood; teaches lifesaving skills; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a charitable organization — not a government agency — and depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

She has a dedication to making society understand that domestic violence is an issue that affects everyone – socially, spiritually, educationally, etc.

Nancy has led Sistercare since 1988 and has turned the agency into arguably one of the most recognized and successful organizations in the state

While all the nominees had improved the status of women in South Carolina, Nancy was the unique candidate who has spent her life improving not only the status of women, but the lives of women and children in South Carolina.

Since 1989, the South Carolina Governor's Commission on Women has recognized and honored women, who through their works and lives have made a significant impact on the quality of life for women and for all citizens of South Carolina. It is with great pleasure that I write to inform you that you have been selected, from among a strong pool of nominees, to receive the South Carolina Commission on Women 2011 Woman of Achievement Award.

Outdoor Advertising Meeting -- Governor's Office

Background:

Board members of the SC Outdoor Advertising Association in attendance: Jeff Noland of Fairway Advertising in Duncan, Scott Shockley of Lamar Adv here in Columbia and Hal Stevenson of Grace Outdoor also in Columbia.

Friday

Thanks for talking with me about the outdoor advertising campaign and helping to facilitate scheduling. The SC Outdoor Advertising Association would like to do a statewide promotional campaign on their billboards for the benefit of the state. This initiative would be funded exclusively by the advertisers with no cost to SC. The intent is to disseminate a positive image about our state. The message thrust, such as business climate for job creation or quality of life, can be chosen by the Governor. The Governor can help to draw attention to the effort by announcing the campaign to the public.

Three of our board members would like to schedule a meeting with the Governor to describe their plan and get her input on messaging, timing and whether we should coordinate the effort with any cabinet agencies.

Processing Center History:

FLORENCE, SC --

ESAB Welding & Cutting Products is laying off 23 people between now and the end of the year, Daniel L. Preest, vice president of human resources for ESAB, said Friday.

The Florence location employs 500 people, Preest said.

In addition to these layoffs, it'll be terminating temporary employees. This is all part of the global restructuring announced previously, Preest said. Total layoffs for ESAB North America are 50 positions. Globally, the total amount of layoffs is 500.

In July 2009, ESAB officials announced a restructuring that eliminated jobs at the Florence site, though they never said how many. About 90 employees at the Florence site lost their jobs in early April 2009, and 20 salaried employees were laid off in early February 2009 throughout the company's North American locations, including the Florence site.

ESAB Welding and Cutting Products announced in April plans to open a new manufacturing facility in Union County, a decision that will bring more than 100 jobs to South Carolina. The company is conducting a due diligence on the new location, after which ESAB intends to invest capital into the 250,000-square-foot facility.

The decision will also result in phasing out and eventually closing production at ESAB's Ashtabula, Ohio facility. Manufacturing will continue at the Ashtabula facility until the new facility on Midway Drive in Union County is up and running. Initial production is planned to begin by the end of 2011 there.

ESAB Welding & Cutting Products bills itself as one of the world's largest and most skilled manufacturers of welding and cutting equipment and welding filler metals. The Florence facility was established in 1969 under Union Carbide, then became Linde/L-Tec which was acquired in the '80s by ESAB.

The ESAB North America operating companies are The ESAB Group Inc. and its subsidiaries, Alcotec Wire Corp., ESAB Group Canada Inc. and ESAB Mexico, S.A. de C.V. The ESAB Group Inc. is the wholly-owned subsidiary of Anderson Group Inc., headquartered in Atlanta

BACKGROUND:

State Workforce Investment Board and SC Works Talking Points
(August 29, 2011)

The State Workforce Investment Board (SWIB):

- As many of you know the State Workforce Investment Board is charged with assisting the Governor to create a competitive workforce advantage. The board does this by ensuring that a high quality and effective workforce system exists in order to improve the lives of all South Carolinians.
- Previous SWIB:
 - The SWIB was formed 12 years ago under federal legislation prior to the Workforce Investment Act. The board structure was a grandfathered board, and Federal law allowed states to retain old structures.
 - We have now decided to change our current board structure to reflect the state's needs.
 - The leadership, service, and dedication of the previous SWIB has greatly benefited South Carolina and helped move us forward.
 - Through the previous SWIB's efforts, many businesses and job seekers have been served.

- Now, is the time, however, where opportunity is met by necessity and given the current state of our unemployment, I thought it was great time to take a fresh look at how we go about job training and workforce recruiting efforts.
- The new SWIB structure will give us a chance to do just that.
- New SWIB:
 - We are now looking to move towards an employer-driven workforce.
 - The new SWIB has been restructured to support innovative job creation while best serving both South Carolina's employers and job seekers.
 - Mike Johnson, CEO of Cox Industries, Inc. in Orangeburg will serve as the board chairman. He is a person who certainly has a feel for the employment conditions in his region and in the state.
 - The majority of the 31-member board is now comprised of business professionals in an effort to focus on employers' needs when it comes to identifying and training a skilled workforce.
 - The new SWIB will now also include four members from our General Assembly: two from the House and two from the Senate.

The new SC Works Brand:

- We are unveiling SC Works, a new brand identity for local one-stop centers that speaks to both employers and job seekers about available services and resources to get South Carolinians back to work.
- Statewide, all local workforce centers' names have been changed to SC Works plus a description of the site's location. Some examples are SC Works Greenville,

SC Works Orangeburg and SC Works Hartsville.

Monday

- The unified brand and accompanying integrated approach to workforce services will position South Carolina to most efficiently serve employers and job seekers.
- SC Works includes a user-friendly website www.scworks.org, where job seekers can search for jobs and upload resumes. Employers also can search for qualified candidates on this site.
- Part of introducing SC Works to our state includes 15-second television spots targeted to job seekers and employers and online and print ads targeted to employers.

BACKGROUND:

HISTORY

Founded by Robert Bosch (1861-1942) in 1886 in Stuttgart, Germany as the "Workshop for Precision Mechanics." This year marks the company's 125th birthday.

FINANCIALS

- Robert Bosch GmbH (Bosch) had sales of $67 billion in 2010, up 24% over 2009. The company called 2009 "the most difficult fiscal year the Bosch Group experienced in recent decades."
- Since 1964, Bosch's majority shareholder (92%) has been Robert Bosch Stiftung GmbH, a charitable foundation. The Bosch family holds a 7% voting stake in the company, and Robert Bosch Industrietreuhand KG, an industrial trust, holds 93% of voting rights. This special ownership structure was established to encourage and preserve "entrepreneurial freedom." The foundation does not have voting rights.
- Bosch has 280,000 associates, with more than 160,000 located outside of Germany. There are about 20,000 associates in the United States. In 2009, Bosch cut employment by about 10,000.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

- Bosch is a leading global supplier of technology and services operating in three business segments: Automotive Technology, Industrial Technology, and Consumer Goods and Building Technology.
- Automotive Technology is the company's largest business segment, accounting for more than half of sales and more than 159,000 associates. Major businesses are injection technology for internal combustion engines, powertrain peripherals, alternative drive concepts, systems for active and passive driving safety, technology for in-car information and communication, as well as products and services for the automotive aftermarket.
- Bosch has a joint venture with Daimler AG for electric vehicle motors with production to begin in Germany in 2012. Bosch also has other partnerships. BMW chose a Bosch/Samsung venture to supply batteries for its Megacity electric vehicle.
- Industrial Technology comprises automation technology, packaging technology and photovoltaics. The subsidiary Bosch Rexroth has technologies for machine drive, control and motion applications – hydraulics, electrics, mechanics and pneumatics – including wind power.
- Consumer Goods and Building Technology operates in the areas of power tools, heating systems and security systems. The sector includes a 50/50 joint venture with Siemens GmbH that makes household appliances.
- Bosch is "systematically building" its wind and solar energy businesses, including the development of organic photovoltaics that do not use silicon and instead use polymer films deposited on a flexible substrate. This technology has met the requirements for large-scale production.
- Each year Bosch invests roughly 10% of sales in R&D and applies for more than 3,000 patents worldwide, making it one of the most innovative companies in Germany.
- Bosch was recognized for the first time as Fortune magazine's "most admired automotive supplier" in 2010. Bosch also took 4th place among most admired German companies.

CURRENT OPERATIONS

- Bosch is headquartered in Gerlingen near Stuttgart, Germany, and has more than 300 subsidiaries and regional companies with operations in more than 60 countries. Bosch has sales and service operations in more than 150 countries.

- In North America, Bosch has more than 70 locations with about 30 related to automotive technology, 20 primary locations for industrial technology, and another 20 locations for consumer goods and building technology. North America is Bosch's largest market outside of Germany and represents about 14% of global sales.
- Bosch established a presence in the United States in 1906 with a headquarters and Bosch Engineering North America in Farmington Hills, Michigan. In addition to manufacturing plants and sales/service offices, other operations in the United States include test tracks in Michigan, Indiana, and Minnesota and Research and Technology Center North America offices in Palo Alto, California; Cambridge, Massachusetts; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
- In 2009, the company sold a large part of its car radio business and its North American foundation brakes business.

SOUTH CAROLINA OPERATIONS

- Bosch began operating in South Carolina in 1973 and employs more than 3,500 people manufacturing automotive components and industrial hydraulic pumps and motors.
- Robert Bosch LLC in North Charleston opened in 1973 with 100 associates. Over the years, the plant has expanded about six times with investment totaling more than $500 million. The facility manufactures antilock braking systems and fuel injectors for diesel and gasoline-powered engines which are sold directly to domestic and foreign vehicle manufacturers and wholesale to other suppliers. A 2001 expansion that added a diesel common rail manufacturing building made the plant the world's largest (at least at the time) maker of fuel injectors in the world, capable of producing 40 million injectors annually. Employment peaked at about 2,300 associates. Today the plant has about 1,700 associates. In late 2010, Bosch announced a $125 million investment and 300 new jobs over five years. Bosch is installing new equipment for next generation diesel, anti-lock brake, and electronic stability control systems products. Bosch is also implementing the use of reclaimed water with the assistance of a U.S. Economic Development Administration grant to Dorchester County. Bosch is a sponsor of an award-winning robotics team made up of students from area high schools.
- Robert Bosch LLC in Anderson manufactures oxygen sensors, integrated air fuel modules, transmission control modules and other parts for gasoline engines. In 2008, the plant produced its 200 millionth oxygen sensor. In Dec. 2008, Bosch offered buyouts to all 1,340 workers, and 78 workers took the offer.
- Associated Fuel Pump Systems Corp., also in Anderson, was established in 1989 and is a joint venture with Japan's Denso Corp. making automotive fuel pumps and fuel pump modules. Its OEM customers include Toyota, Honda, Subaru, GM and Ford, and it employs more than 300 people. AFCO is currently adding 11 new employees and investing $11 million in new equipment.
- Bosch Rexroth Corp., in Fountain Inn, employs about 400 over 500 associates manufacturing industrial hydraulic units, including piston units and pumps primarily for the agricultural and construction industries. In early 2010, the company announced it was moving some operations from Texas and investing $10 million to expand production to hydraulic motors used in oil drilling, transportation and other industries. The investment will lead has led to 50 new jobs. Bosch Rexroth won the 2010 Silver Crescent Manufacturer of the Year Award in the medium manufacturer category. Bosch acquired this plant from Mannesmann AG.

- In 2001, Bosch closed a Vermont American tool factory in Fountain Inn. In 2003, it closed an automotive electronics joint venture in Anderson, and in 2006 the company closed an 800-employee drum brake plant in Sumter and moved the operation to Mexico.

BACKGROUND:

For more than a century, the Greenville Chamber has been at the center of Greenville's vision for the future. Founded in 1889, the Chamber has fostered new ideas and new organizations, and it has been practical in its search for answers to current problems and farsighted in its plans for the future.

Major projects of the Chamber in the early 1900s included bringing the American Cigar Factory to Greenville to diversify the city's cotton-centered economy and encouraging the development of the Municipal League, which worked for beautification and sanitation.

Members also worked to build Greenville's first YMCA; were given credit for helping merchants avoid bankruptcy and business failure during the depression of 1907; assisted in the development of a beautification plan for the city; published an illustrated guide to Greenville in 1911; and, organized the city's first credit report bureau.

In 1929, the Chamber turned its attention to aviation, successfully bringing passenger and airmail service to the city. Members also began lobbying for a federal building and a new city hall, and they celebrated the completion of Shriners Hospital.

Post-World War II plans included working for a veteran's hospital, expanding Greenville General Hospital and establishing a naval reserve armory.

In the 1950s, the Chamber celebrated the opening of Memorial Auditorium, saw Main Street become the Upstate's retail center and cooperated with the county and state in establishing Greenville Technical College. Combined efforts of volunteers and staff brought Bob Jones University to Greenville in 1947, and the Chamber's deepest continuing interest was the opening of Greenville-Spartanburg Airport in 1962.

The Chamber conducted an education study in the 1960s that led to school accreditation and integration. This gave leaders of all Upstate communities the opportunity to talk and compromise, making integration of public accommodations and schools among the most peaceful in the South.

The Greenville Central Area Partnership, the Convention and Visitors Bureau and Freedom Weekend Aloft all began with Chamber leadership in the 1980s and have continued to function on their own.

With the 1990s came such developments as the Peace Center for the Performing Arts and the BI-LO Center, as well as the establishment of the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities in downtown Greenville.

The 21st century has seen the Chamber as a major supporter of the establishment of the Clemson University International Center for Automotive Research in Greenville. As the new millennium continues, focuses of the Chamber moving forward will be the support of entrepreneurialism, high-tech businesses and a strengthening workforce.

RECENT NLRB RULINGS

BACKGROUND

Specialty Healthcare:

"In a case known as Specialty Healthcare, the board decided that the union could seek to organize a group that consists only of nursing assistants, a blow to the employer, which wanted to include other nonprofessional employees in the unit. Employer groups had been concerned the board would use the health-care industry case to endorse the formation of so-called mini-bargaining units in a range of workplaces, which they said would allow unions to target small groups of workers the unions know would support unionization. The Democrats on the board, in their written decision, used the case to clarify what they said has been longstanding policy in various industries when determining what constitutes an appropriate group of workers to organize. They said that when an employer disagrees with a union's proposal to organize a narrower group of employees, the onus is on the employer to prove the excluded workers share 'an overwhelming community of interest' with those in the proposed unit. The board's lone Republican, Brian Hayes, disagreed with this assessment in his dissent." (Melanie Trottman, "NLRB Sides With Unions In Three Cases," The Wall Street Journal, 8/30/11)

"In a move eagerly anticipated by labor and dreaded by employers, the NLRB today issued its decision in Specialty Healthcare. I've referred to this case several times over the last few months, and for good reason. The case presented the NLRB with a chance to redefine what constitutes a unit of employees that's appropriate for bargaining. The NLRB seized the opportunity to, in the words of board member Brian Hayes's withering dissent, 'define the test of an appropriate unit by looking only at whether a group of employees share a community of interest among themselves and make it virtually impossible for a party opposing this unit to prove that any excluded employees should be include' (emphasis added). In other words, a union may now cherry-pick for organizational purposes only those employees it believes support the union, and the burden falls on the employer to show that other employees should be in the unit because the excluded employees share an overwhelming community of interest with the union's cherry-picked employees." (Peter Kirsanow, "Today's NLRB Decision Will Make Union Organization Easier," National Review Online, 8/30/11)

Lamons Gasket Co.:

"In another case known as Lamons Gasket Co., the board decided that employees opposed to a union would no longer have the right to immediately challenge the recognition of a 'card-check' election – in which employees sign cards to show their interest in joining. Unions prefer the card-check method over secret-ballot elections." (Melanie Trottman, "NLRB Sides With Unions In Three Cases," The Wall Street Journal, 8/30/11)

UGL-Unicco Service Co.:

"In the third case, known at UGL-Unicco Service Co., the board decided that after the sale of a unionized company, the new owner, the employees or a rival union can't immediately challenge the incumbent union's right to represent the workers. Instead, there must be a 'reasonable period' of time for collective bargaining to have 'a fair chance to succeed,' the board's Democrats decided." (Melanie Trottman, "NLRB Sides With Unions In Three Cases," The Wall Street Journal, 8/30/11)

RESPONSES

WFI Statements On NLRB Rulings:

"In response to the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) decision concerning Specialty Healthcare and Rehabilitation Center of Mobile, WFI Spokesperson Fred Wszolek stated: 'The decision by Obama's labor board concerning Specialty Healthcare radically alters how collective bargaining units are defined in every industry despite the dishonest claim made by the NLRB stating they "did not create new criteria for determining appropriate bargaining units outside of health care facilities." The new standard mandates that the only requirement to form a unit is a "community of interest" meaning the tight ends on a football team could constitute a unit, while the offensive linemen or wide receivers would constitute separate units. Going further, the regulatory agency makes it nearly impossible for employers to expand the pool of individuals in the "community of interest" as the employees outside the unit would need to meet an arbitrary threshold classified as an "overwhelming community of interest." The practical effect of this is that under one business' roof, multiple mini-units could be formed resulting in dramatically increased labor relations costs due to the employer having to bargain with multiple units negotiating against one another. As this unfolds in one of the worst economies in recent memory, the end result will be more job loss and pain among America's working class. The decision by the Obama Administration in Specialty Healthcare is an affront to job creators and hardworking citizens and shreds any credibility the president maintained on the economy.'" (Press Release, "WFI Issues Responses To Individual NLRB Decisions," Workforce Fairness Institute, 8/31/11)

"In response to the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) decision concerning Lamons Gasket, WFI Spokesperson Fred Wszolek stated: 'The NLRB's decision to disallow workers the right to challenge their employer's recognition of a union through card check is stunning. Despite its request, no empirical evidence supporting the agency's reversal of this precedent surfaced. To the contrary, according to the regulatory agency's own statistics, since the right was created in 2007, the union lost only 25% of the employee challenges. Congress recently refused to consider the Employee 'Forced' Choice Act (EFCA), which would have instituted card check and done away with the secret ballot, yet an agency within the executive branch stacked with unelected bureaucrats doing the bidding of labor bosses is completely undermining the will of the legislative branch. It is clear from this decision by Obama's labor board that the Congress must step forward and pass legislation that protects employee free choice with a secret ballot in workplace elections and removes card check as a means to force workers into unions.'" (Press Release, "WFI Issues Responses To Individual NLRB Decisions," Workforce Fairness Institute, 8/31/11)

"In response to the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) decision concerning UGL-UNICCO, WFI Spokesperson Fred Wszolek stated: 'Once again seeking to force unionization any way it can, the decision by President Obama's labor board overturns what has been NLRB law for most of its history and it does so without justification. The regulatory agency bars any employee challenge to an incumbent union when there is a change in ownership. While the board claims such a bar is necessary to preserve labor relations stability, elsewhere it becomes clear that the old law was too threatening to Big Labor because there has been an increase in mergers and acquisitions. As more workers voluntarily decide against joining unions, this is yet another effort by government to promote the interests of labor bosses above employees.'" (Press Release, "WFI Issues Responses To Individual NLRB Decisions," Workforce Fairness Institute, 8/31/11)

NRTW Statements On NLRB Rulings:

"Mark Mix, president of the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, also criticized the board's action. 'This unprecedented rule change fundamentally changes (and expands) the NLRB from a remedial role to an agency that is involved with every workplace in the country even if no allegations of violations have occurred,' Mix said in a statement. 'If the NLRB was really interested in protecting workers, they would inform workers of the dangers of coercive 'card check' drives and publicize their rights, under law, to remove an unwanted union instead of burdening job providers and independent-minded employees with new rules that undermine workplace freedom,' Mix argued." (Lawrence E. Dube, "NLRB Final Rule Will Require Notice Posting; Action Reflects Some Changes From Proposal," Bureau Of National Affairs, 8/30/11)

"'The Obama Labor Board's ruling to kill the Dana Corp. precedent that allows workers a secret ballot vote to kick out a union that gained control of the workplace in an abusive 'card check' campaign adds to an already exhaustive list of paybacks from the Obama Administration to Big Labor. 'Big Labor and its allies have launched a full-scale assault on worker freedom and the Obama Administration is working tirelessly to appease them through bureaucratic means after they failed in Congress. The American people and their elected representatives in Congress oppose the Card Check Forced Unionism bill, but the Obama Labor Board seems determined to impose card check on American workers in every way it can. 'Taken with the NLRB's other recent actions, the Obama Administration has made it easier for union operatives to steamroll over workers while making it next to impossible for independent-minded workers to stand up for their rights or decertify the union hierarchy. 'While the secret ballot provides at least a limited protection to ensure that union recognition enjoys the uncoerced support of a majority of employees, no worker should ever be compelled to join or pay dues to a union, or accept the union's so-called representation, to get or keep a job.'" (Press Release, "Worker Advocate Denounces NLRB's Ruling To Take Away Protection Workers Have Against Card Check Forced Unionism," National Right To Work Legal Defense Foundation Inc., 8/30/11)

US Chamber Statements On NLRB Rulings:

"U.S. Chamber of Commerce labor policy expert Glenn Spencer adds that while he won't comment on how other groups criticize the Board, he thinks '[t]he NLRB is using the regulatory process to tilt the playing field in favor of organized labor, and fostering economic uncertainty in the process.' 'America's job creators certainly view implementing 'quickie' elections, potentially authorizing 'micro-union' organizing, and pursuing other policies in the spirit of the failed Card Check bill as radical,' Spencer said." (Matthew Boyle, "Outgoing Democratic NLRB Chairwoman: Conservatives Attacking Board With 'Baseball Bat'," Daily Caller, 8/30/11)

"'The one common theme throughout these cases is that they were decided in favor of keeping the unions in power and blocking the ability of employees to challenge whether or not the unions still enjoy majority status,' U.S. Chamber of Commerce Senior Vice President of Labor Randel Johnson said in an email." (Melanie Trottman, "Business Irked As Labor Board Backs Unions," The Wall Street Journal, 8/31/11)

Number: (704) 583-8915 (direct line)

Note: Although "Jochen Etzel" the new CEO took office on July 1st he has not been involved in the project and Tim remains the project lead. The Gov. has met Tim on two occasions, at a DOC meeting in June, and most recently when she hosted the company for breakfast at the mansion on July 29th.

Project Up-Date

The North American decision team lead by Tim Rogers was in Germany last week and presented their recommendations to Conti's Executive Board on the 26th. Feedback from that meeting indicated the following:

- No decision has been taken and no States have been officially cut although it was understood that Louisiana would not be the final location.
- SC ranked third on incentives, Louisiana was first and NC was second.
- Sumter is the preferred site, but as the NC site would also work the Board is having difficulty getting past the up-front cash piece.
- Nicolai Setzer the Board member leading the project (Attended the Gov's Breakfast July 29th) insists on fairness and transparency, as such he has allow NC additional time (2 weeks) to deal with the legislative elements of their proposal.
- Nicolai is currently in China and unavailable but will be the target of the Gov's final call later this month. Our information indicates that should NC achieve their stated commitment, we will be asked for one more round of incentives to seal the deal.

A unique memorial in Columbia will pay tribute to the victims of the 9/11 terrorist attacks. Family members of South Carolina's first responders held an official groundbreaking for the site at 8:46 a.m. Tuesday-- the time the first airplane hit Tower One of the World Trade Center on September 11th, 2001. The First Responders Remembrance Memorial will contain two steel beams from the World Trade Center towers that collapsed. The memorial is meant to remind South Carolinians of those killed in New York City, as well as of the first responders in the Midlands who have since died in the line of duty. The finished memorial is scheduled to open on September 11, 2011. COLUMBIA, S.C. --

The families of fallen first responders broke ground Tuesday at the Columbia Convention Center for a memorial that will honor the first responders who died in the line of duty in both the 9/11 attacks and throughout the Midlands. The granite and stone monument will center around two steel beams from World Trade Center Tower One, which were awarded to the monument committee's founder Dan Hennigan in 2010.

The names of all the first responders who were lost on Sept. 11, 2001 will be etched onto the memorial, along with the names of all of the Midlands firefighters, emergency medical services workers, law enforcement officers and members of the five branches of military who have died in the line of service since 2001.

In 2001 White Knoll Middle School in West Columbia raised money to purchase a fire truck to donate to a New York City fire station. Eight years later, when two of the school's students were visiting the city to remember the tragedies, Hennigan, a retired Army officer who grew up in Brooklyn, NY, realized the "labor of love" he was about to begin. "I was standing in front of the Brooklyn Wall of Remembrance in New York City, when we had two seventh graders from White Knoll Middle School read their one page essay on what 9/11 means to them," Hennigan said. "As they read their essays to the New Yorkers I was looking at that wall, and I knew I wanted to build something here in the South Carolina Midlands."

Hennigan said that though New York is far away, he thinks South Carolinians feel the patriotic connection to the sacrifices made on 9/11. Giving local families of first responders a place to honor those who "gave the ultimate sacrifice" is also one of the goals of the monument's advisory committee.

Elaine Johnson's son Army Spc. Darius Jennings died in a helicopter crash in Iraq in 2003.

Sunday

She said that though she lives in Orangeburg, Columbia feels like home to she and her family, and that the support behind the monument proves it.

"This what home's supposed to do," Johnson said. "Home's supposed to take care of their people from home. They're supposed to take care of the military from their area. Regardless of where it happened, they still have roots here."

John Stossel Interview -- Kitchenfish 1333 Main Street, Suite 180 Columbia, SC
Advance: Gianna Williams
[REDACTED]

To recap, John Stossel is doing a show that will air on September 22 titled "The Union Racket." I saw that Ms. Haley recently called for the NLRB to be disbanded -- and that she's particularly upset about how the federal government is preventing Boeing from bringing jobs to SC -- so it would be great to have her on the show.

It would be a one-on-one interview with John. I don't suppose the governor plans to be in New York any time between now and the 22nd? An in-person interview would be ideal, but we could also do an interview by satellite from South Carolina. We are flexible as to dates and times, and could try to accommodate the governor's schedule any time between Sept 12 and 22.

FYI, two other guests -- in other parts of the show -- will be Mitch Daniels and Scott Walker. Naturally, it would be great to also get Governor Haley's take on the fight going on with the NLRB in South Carolina.

BACKGROUND:

Bill Maloney Biography

Bill Maloney is an experienced and dedicated West Virginia business and community leader. He is a conservative who is willing to lead by example, stand by his principles and values, and put the needs of West Virginians first.

Bill's leadership experience in the business world and in service to his community runs deep. No stranger to hard work, he worked his way up from rig hand to project engineer to founder and executive of leading global drilling companies.

Bill was a co-founder and executive at North American Drillers, North American Pump and Supply Company and Shaft Drillers International (SDI). He grew North American Drillers from a two-person business in 1984 to become the world-leader in large-diameter shaft drilling for mining and other industries. Bill sold his share of the business in 2006. Currently, he is a drilling consultant and the principal of Cow Run Energy and Drill Leader.

An active investor in numerous start-up companies and community organizations, Bill is committed to helping others succeed. He doesn't just invest in ideas or business plans, he invests in people. Bill believes people make all the difference.

Bill has been actively involved with the West Virginia Angel Network, providing needed financial support and guidance to entrepreneurial efforts to diversify West Virginia's economy in such areas as engineering and construction, specialized manufacturing, banking, media, medical technology, software, and natural resource development. He is also a past president of the Greater Morgantown Community Trust.

Bill is the founder of the Mine Rescue Drilling Fund, which was established to provide critical assistance for mine rescues in the United States and abroad. He started the fund following his efforts in the successful rescue of 33 trapped miners in Chile last year. Convinced their expertise could aid in the rescue of the miners, Bill and his drilling colleagues took action and were the driving force behind rescue "Plan B," which helped to free the miners.

Bill is an active member of the Society of Mining Engineers, the West Virginia Coal Mining Institute, the Independent Oil and Gas Association of West Virginia, and the National Groundwater Association. He is a past chairman of the West Virginia chapter of Associated Builders and Contractors.

Bill, 52, has been married to Sharon Maloney for 30 years. They have two daughters. The Maloneys reside in Monongalia County and attend Chestnut Ridge Church. Bill is a graduate of Lehigh University with a degree in industrial engineering.

for biofuels. That plant is a tall grass, growing 12 feet tall every year. It is planted only once and grows back to be harvested every year, for thirty years or more. The yields per acre are enormous once it is established. It grows well without irrigation, fertilizer, or herbicides, even on poor soil. This keeps its energy input slow. So low, in fact, that its energy outputs are 32 times the inputs. This plant is Miscanthusxgiganteus, a giant grass.

Our business intends to fulfill contracts for the biomass needs of major bioenergy producers of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. We will purchase 10,000 acres of land throughout these states. This will be harvested annually and transported by truck and/or rail to the bioenergy facilities. The bioenergy can take the form of electricity, solid fuel pellets, or cellulosic ethanol or butanol.

EVENT: Gov. Haley will tour the Burton Center (for disabilities and special needs).

DATE: Monday, September 19, 2011

TIME: 2:30 PM

LOCATION: 2605 Highway 72/221 East Greenwood, SC 29649

LOCATION CONTACT: Jimmy Burton [REDACTED]

DRESS: Business.

STAFF: Tim Pearson and Katherine Haltiwanger

MICHAEL ATTENDING: No

PURPOSE: The Governor met with Mr. Burton at the last Open Door After 4 and agreed to tour the Burton Center.

INVITED BY: Jimmy Burton

PRESS: No

PUBLIC: Yes

BACKGROUND:

Burton Center, a non-profit, governmental agency, provides services for people with disabilities and special needs (autism, mental retardation, head injuries, spinal cord injuries and related disabilities) and their families in Abbeville, Edgefield, Greenwood, Lexington, McCormick, and Saluda counties. Services are provided at no charge to those who meet specific eligibility criteria by the South Carolina Department of Disabilities and Special Needs.

Burton Center has experienced phenomenal growth since 1971. Today Burton Center serves over 1100 people and employs over 450 staff members. Programs are developed to assist individuals in exercising their own choices resulting in growth and independence.

Transportation is provided by 65 vans and buses traveling over 4000 miles per day. Each person is picked up every day, transported to the center, and returned home in the afternoon.

Adult Day Programs

The Adult Day Programs provide a safe, healthy work and training environment for adults over the age of 21 at the centers located in Greenwood, Lexington, Saluda and Ware Shoals. Adults are trained in vocational skills through in-house contracts and projects for local businesses. Adults gain valuable work skills while earning money. Progression to other employment opportunities is the long-term aim of this area. On an individual basis, training is also offered in socialization, self-help and independent living skills.

The Supported Employment Program helps people to become independent and productive members of society. This is accomplished by placing them in stable jobs with good wages and benefits. Job coaches develop employment opportunities and work with individuals one-on-one to teach them the skills necessary to perform and maintain a particular job. Assistance is also provided to develop money management, use of transportation and interpersonal skills.

The ultimate goal of supported employment is to place adults in the Competitive

Employment Program where they are employed within the community. All of these adults make at least minimum wage and have proven to be reliable and dependable workers. Many of them are now taxpayers rather than tax consumers.

Rehabilitation support services provides the opportunity for adults on the Day Program waiting list to learn and use community resources such as the library, obtaining a job, budgeting, making a doctor's appointment, health care, good work habits, and recreational facilities.

Child and Adult Food Program (CACFP): Burton Center is the sponsorship of U.S. Department of Agriculture Child and Adult Care Food Program and will serve free meals regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, age or disability. Persons with disabilities who require alternative means for communication (Braille, large print, audio tape, etc) should contact USDA's TARGET Center at (202) 720-2600 (voice and TDD). There is to be no discrimination in admissions policy, meal service, or the use of facilities. To file a complaint of discrimination, write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9410 or call (800) 79503272 or (202) 720-6382 (TTY). USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer. Centers involved in this program are: Greenwood, Ware Shoals, Lexington and the Saluda Adult Day Program.

Residential Programs

Burton Center currently operates thirty-one community residences. Ten of these homes are in Greenwood, nine in Lexington, six in Ware Shoals, one in Edgefield, one in McCormick, three in Due West, and one in Saluda. These homes provide 24-hour care and supervision, counseling, training, recreation and other activities.

Supervised Living Program

As people in the community residences acquire certain levels of independence, they are referred to one of the three supervised living programs in Greenwood, Edgefield, and Ware Shoals. These adults either share an apartment or house with a roommate or live by themselves. They are responsible for the upkeep of their homes, preparing their own meals, and are financially independent. They are either employed in the community or are receiving vocational training to prepare them for future employment.

Community Training Home I Program

When it is not possible for a person to remain in their natural home, Burton Center offers another residential option through the Community Training Home I Program. In this program individuals have an opportunity to live in a loving, supportive home of a private citizen who has been trained and licensed by the South Carolina Department of Disabilities and Special Needs.

Family Support Services

Service Coordination is the point of entry into the South Carolina Department of Disabilities and Special Needs service delivery system. Service Coordinators serving

Abbeville, Edgefield, Greenwood, Lexington, McCormick and Saluda counties help individuals identify their needs and develop a service plan to meet those needs. The Service Coordinators organize services with other agencies such as Department of Education, Department of Mental Health, Department of Juvenile Justice, United Ministries, Burton Center, etc. As an individual's needs change, the Service Coordinators ensure that adequate services are provided.

Early Intervention is a family focused, in-home service for children birth to age six (6). An early interventionist helps families understand the development of their child. Service coordination is provided according to a family service plan. The early interventionist works in conjunction with South Carolina's BabyNet Agency to serve infants and toddlers age 0 to three (3) years and if determined eligible, Early Intervention will continue services to six (6) years of age.

Respite Services provide temporary care for children or adults, allowing families or caregivers to handle emergencies, personal situations or take a break. Respite may be provided in the person's home, a qualified caregiver's home, regional center or other locations.

Head and Spinal Cord Injury Services (HASCI) are provided based on the needs of the consumer, the appropriateness of the service to meet the need, and the availability of funding. There may be a waiting list for particular services. Services may also be limited by the availability of a service provider in your community. To apply for services for Traumatic Brain Injury, Spinal Cord Injury and Similar Disabilities: Contact the HASCI Division Information and Referral (I&R) Service at 1-866-867-3864 in Columbia, to be screened for referral to South Carolina Department of Disabilities and Special Needs' Head and Spinal Cord Injury (HASCI) Division.

AIKEN COUNTY BRIDGESTONE INFO:

Timeline and key facts for the new ORR plant construction and start-up:

- Manufacturing equipment for the first phase of the plant will be installed starting in the fourth quarter of 2012.
- The first production tire is scheduled to be produced by the end of the first quarter of 2014 with a target date of full phase one production by the end of 2015.
- The first phase of the project will initially create more than 330 full-time and contractor jobs.
- The project is expected to result in approximately 550 new full-time and contractor jobs when fully completed (planned for 2020).

Timeline and key facts for the PSR/LTR expansion project:

- In July the company announced the first phase of the PSR/LTR plant's expansion, a $135 million investment designed to increase daily capacity by 4,750 tires.
- The expansion announced today will, when complete, increase the plant's tire production by an additional 8,000 tires per day.
- When fully completed, the two projects will increase the plant's square footage by 740,000 square feet – to 2.74 million square feet – and result in a rated production capacity of 37,750 tires per day or approximately 13.4 million tires annually.
- Construction of both phases of the plant's expansion is planned to begin in November 2011 with an expected completion date in the first quarter of 2013.
- The first production tire is projected to be produced in the expansion areas during the third quarter of 2013.
- The two PSR/LTR projects are expected to create more than 300 new full-time and contractor jobs in Aiken County when fully completed (planned for 2015).

SOUTH CAROLINA BRIDGESTONE BACKGROUND:

Facilities: South Carolina is home to the Aiken County passenger and light truck tire facility and a Building Products facility in Wellford.
The Aiken County facility is part of Bridgestone Americas Tire Operations (BATO), and began operations in 1998. Twelve hundred fifty people are currently employed at Aiken County.
In 2009, the facility earned LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Silver Certification from the U.S. Green Building Council. LEED is awarded internationally to buildings for excellent energy and water efficiency, indoor environmental quality and resource stewardship. It is rarely awarded to existing manufacturing sites. Aiken County along with the Warren County, Tenn., plant are the first two – and so far only – LEED-certified tire plants in the world.
The Wellford facility produces TPO membrane and TPO vacuum formed parts, and was acquired in 2002. The facility employs about 69 teammates.

Employment: Bridgestone Americas employs about 1,625 teammates in the state of South Carolina.

Retail: Bridgestone Americas has 34 company-owned retail stores in South Carolina, which employ about 352 teammates. Annual retail sales were more than $51 million in 2010.

Investment: Bridgestone Americas has invested more than $532 million in South Carolina facilities. Bridgestone Americas has invested more than $477 million in the Aiken County facility, and planned to invest at least $50 million from January 2006 through January 2011. Bridgestone Americas has invested more than $31.1 million in the Wellford facility.

Giving: South Carolina facilities and the Bridgestone Americas Trust Fund contributed nearly $72,000 to local charities in 2010. In 2010, the Aiken County facility and the Bridgestone Americas Trust Fund contributed more than $44,000 to local charities, and the Wellford facility and the Bridgestone Americas Trust Fund contributed about $9,000.

BACKGROUND:

Accomplishments of the series:

- Series emphasis on tag and release has helped change South Carolina's billfishing statistics from 90 percent mortality to 90 percent released.
- Tag recoveries from Series-tagged billfish are benefitting research efforts. A South Carolina tagged marlin, recaptured off Brazil after traveling 4,320 nautical miles, provided the first known evidence of a billfish's trans-equatorial crossing.
- Series conservation funds financed the construction of two new South Carolina artificial reefs, a study of how artificial reef design affects fish species abundance and composition and provided a grant to the Marine Game Fish Tagging Program in support of the tuna, wahoo and dolphin tagging initiative.

- Series conservation funds financed travel costs for MRD's Office of Fisheries Management staff to attend NMFS Highly Migratory Species Management meetings and funded an economic impact study of the 1997 Governor's Cup.
- The Cup was instrumental in achieving passage of a law banning the sale of billfish in S.C.
- The Series received the South Carolina Wildlife Federation's prestigious Outdoor Ethics Conservationist award for 1993.
- South Carolina's success inspired North Carolina and Georgia to form Governor's Cup Series of their own, along with an annual interstate competition, the Carolinas Shootout.
- The Governor's Cup provided initial funding for the S.C. Dolphin Tagging Research Project, set up to study the migration range of this highly sought after pelagic gamefish by recruiting recreational anglers to tag a portion of their catch for science
- The Cup provided funding for tournament surveys to be conducted at major billfish tournaments along the S.C. coast.

Awards

Winners of the Governor's Cup Billfishing Series are assured a place in the rich history of South Carolina. Each year, winning participants have their names engraved on a magnificent hand-carved perpetual trophy.

Hand-carved wooden trophies are presented to the Series champions for Outstanding Billfish, Outstanding Billfish Conservationist and Outstanding Boat and for the largest dolphin, tuna and wahoo. Awards are also presented to the outstanding female and youth anglers of the Series. The Governor presents these trophies to the winners at an annual gala reception

Meeting with Leighton Cubbage -- Governor's Office

Attendees: Leighton Cubbage, Steve Mudge

BACKGROUND:

Thank you for taking the time talking with me today at lunch in Greenville. Ambassador Wilkins has been a friend of mine for years, and I really appreciate his putting us together. We have seen news of how hard our Governor is working for jobs in South Carolina, and today she proved that in her speech here to the Chamber of Commerce in Greenville. I love the fact that she is pro business and is out there going after jobs! We would humbly request a few minutes with her, as we would love to explain to her more about what we are doing. Serrus is building jobs.

We are entrepreneurs, and we are creating a fix for the real estate and bank problems in South Carolina. This last year alone we have put at least $25 million into the economy, created 10 jobs, and put many more vendors to work with our Serrus Capital Partners.

We would love to shake her hand, thank her, and discuss what we see as a partial solution for the fight-for-jobs effort that she is leading in South Carolina. We also sincerely believe that our business is on the brink of a home run as we are successfully launching our second fund. Last week, we spent time in Minnesota talking with a huge investment bank that is interested in possibly raising $100 million for us. This is happening around the country, and I think that we can make it happen in our beloved state. We saw today that our Governor is a real tiger and is out to help the state we all love! Capital spent in South Carolina creates jobs. We are bringing in capital and putting it to work in South Carolina.

BACKGROUND:

The mission of the South Carolina Trucking Association, Inc. is to utilize the resources of the motor carrier industry, to enhance the ability of its members to efficiently, safely & profitably serve the transportation needs of the state, region & nation by providing educational opportunities, compiling & distributing essential information & conducting aggressive programs of advocacy.

History

The First Annual Conference of the Motor Transportation Association of SC - September 11, 1936

In the late 1920s, truck and bus operators across the state of South Carolina began meeting to discuss issues of mutual concern. These meetings eventually led to the 1932 formation of the Motor Carriers Association of South Carolina, an advocacy and trade organization centered in Greenville, South Carolina and led by Fred M. Burnette. The Motor Carriers Association of South Carolina signed a corporate charter on November 9, 1933 that officially changed the organization's name to the Motor Transportation Association of South Carolina and transferred its executive offices to the state's capitol. With the move to Columbia, the MTASC came under new leadership as well: H. C. Mims of Greenville became the association's first president, while George Weathers of Bowman served as vice-president; B. George Price of Walterboro as secretary; and Fred M. Burnette of Greenville as executive secretary and treasurer.

By 1936, the MTASC held its first "convention" at Twin Lakes in Columbia. Spearheaded by then Executive Director Bill Love, the convention attempted not to consolidate the mission and extend the influence of the fledgling organization. The convention was to prepare the MTASC for its first major battle. Over the years, South Carolina had become a blockade state on the eastern seaboard with a truck weight limit of 20,000 pounds. The powerful railroad lobby successfully promoted this blockade to disrupt north-south truck movements and thereby stifle their competition in the transportation industry. Because of its recent organization and directed leadership, the trucking industry was better suited to handle this, the first of its many battles.

In 1986, the MTASC board of directors agreed to change the name of the organization to the South Carolina Trucking Association, Inc. Though our name has changed, our efforts have always remained the same. Since the 1930s, we have been the only trade association in South Carolina whose mission is to serve the united interests of South Carolinians involved in and dependent upon trucking.

The SCTA membership has grown substantially since 1936, when there were only 17 dues-paying members. Today, the association boasts over 900 company members, a number we like to contribute to our dedicated record of service. The association's carrier members range from small, family-owned businesses with only a few vehicles, to large, national companies with major terminal facilities throughout South Carolina, the Southeast, and the nation. Despite our growth, we have not forgotten our roots: small businesses have comprised the majority of SCTA's membership since its inception, and we are committed to protecting, supporting, and enriching the professional lives of all our members, big or small. .

The SCTA is the united voice of South Carolina's trucking industry. We speak with pride and with promise, and we are heard by the media, by the general public, and by the public officials and government agencies that regulate the business of trucking. With a staff of full time professionals and a headquarters in Columbia, we remain well positioned to continue serving our membership in whatever way we can.

BACKGROUND:

Orangeburg announcement involves two affiliated companies—

- Universal Trade Solutions (UTS) specializes in the transloading, storage, packaging and transportation of heavy products, particularly steel.
- The company is based near the Baltimore ports in Maryland.
- Fraley and Schilling (F&S), the second company, is the trucking partner of UTS.
- The companies are announcing a $10 million investment, 100 new jobs.
- For all of the jobs except for one, the company plans to hire from the local area.
- Access to the Port of Charleston and interstates played a major role in the companies' decision to come to South Carolina. The companies will use the port for importing and exporting.
- The companies have purchased an existing building in Orangeburg and are planning an extensive remodel. Construction has already begun.
- Purchasing an existing building has enabled the company to get up and running quickly. The company took possession in August and has already shipped out its first export job.
- More than a dozen workers already have been hired.
- The company chose a rural area because of the employee base of the area and the fact that "the family circle is still in tact, the work ethic is still there," company leaders explain. Officials say they have been blown away by the fact that they have employees who come to them 1-2 times a week to say how much they appreciate the job. They are extremely pleased with the workforce so far because their new hires, "show up, work safely and take care of customers."

Below is a news story about the company that ran in a trade publication in August 2011—

UTS and F&S Expand into the Southeast

From 8/16/11 American Metal Market (AMM Daily/Corinna Petry)

CHICAGO - Universal Trade Solutions Inc. (UTS) has opened a warehouse and distribution facility in Orangeburg County, S.C., with its trucking partner and parent company, Fraley & Schilling Inc.

Baltimore-based UTS chose to follow metal customers into the Southeast and take advantage of export and inland freight opportunities cropping up in an area served by the ports of Charleston and Savannah, said Tom Ferkanv. vice

BACKGROUND:

*This is DuPont's largest investment in the world in the company's history.

* In July, DuPont marked 209th year in operation. Our founder, E.I. duPont de Nemours, was an immigrant French chemist who was encouraged to enter the gunpowder business by none other than Thomas Jefferson -- it was Jefferson who realized the newly formed United States would need its own gunpowder production businesses, and not be reliant on its defense to foreign interests.

* The U.S. government was DuPont's first customer. Over the next two centuries, science and constant innovation have been DuPont's keys to continued success -- from explosives, to chemicals, textiles and advanced fibers (such as Kevlar).

* And in our 3rd century, we're continuing to make significant advances in biotechnology -- including advances in materials to reducing reliance on petroleum-based products; improving our ability to feed and protect a growing global population; and advances in biofuel production.

Cooper River Message Platform – 9/30/11

Core Message Level 1	DuPont has announced the start up of its $500 million Cooper River Kevlar Charleston, S.C. DuPont is a company built on innovation and supports its stakeholders with continued investments in Kevlar® products. The Cooper latest step in our commitment to provide materials that protect more people from hazards around the world.
Supporting Message Level 2	Globally the initial production capacity for Kevlar® will increase by 25 percent to grow by 40 percent, with planned productivity improvements and continued developments over the next two years. The new capacity will allow DuPont customers with next-generation Kevlar® products that improve their applications.
Proof Points Level 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Cooper River plant uses state of the art technology that allows DuPont to grow industries around the world by expanding product lines and capabilities. • It also will increase U.S. industrial capabilities critical for advanced manufacturing, sustainment of a skilled workforce, and national security. • Along with the recent $50M investment at its Spruance plant in Richmond, Virginia, the Cooper River investment represents the largest single investment in Kevlar® capacity increase since the fiber was introduced in 1965.
Supporting Message Level 2	DuPont's investment in the Cooper River plant will support job creation, economic development and a growing global economy.

Closing Remarks

Susan Thomas, Hilton Head Island VCB Chairperson, SC Tourism Coalition

BACKGROUND:

140-150 Attendees registered. 75% tourism officials and 25% higher education officials from across the state.

The South Carolina Travel and Tourism Coalition invites you to attend the Tourism & Higher Learning Education Summit at the Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center on October 7, 2011, beginning at 10:00am and ending at 3:00pm. Join us for a day of collaborative discussions between two of South Carolina's most important economic forces: Tourism & Higher Education.

As South Carolina's largest industry, it is important that we engage in the development of our workforce by exploring collaborative opportunities for internships and mentoring programs between the tourism industry and our higher education institutions. The SCTTC Tourism & Education Summit will feature two interactive panel discussion sessions with educators and tourism professionals from across South Carolina, as well as a lunch featuring special guest speakers.

Educators, Tourism and Business Leaders and Public Sector Partners engage in a lively discussion centered on our theme:

Tooling Tourism's Workforce for the 21st Century

- It is a pleasure to be here today to welcome all of you to the Tourism and Higher Education Summit
- As you all know, the state's tourism industry is arguably, the largest industry in South Carolina.
- Tourism is a $14 billion dollar industry to South Carolina
- 9.4% of the state's employment is generated by the Tourism industry
- Hotel performance has stayed positive, and as of the end of the summer, occupancy has improved 2.5% for the year compared to 2010, and hotel Revenue Per Available Room (REVPAR) has increased 5.3% statewide.
- Statewide Admissions tax collections have significantly improved over the summer as well – with double digit increases in a lot of our key destinations
- The Tourism industry in South Carolina is responsible for lifting a $664 tax burden per household

- Let me repeat that, this means that because of the Tourism industry in this great state, each household in South Carolina is paying $664 less in taxes. That is something to be proud of and is a reason this Summit today is so important.
- Given the impact of tourism on our state's economy, it is imperative to address both long and short term planning to ensure the vitality of this industry, which is why we are all here today
- And one way to ensure the continued health and growth of tourism in South Carolina is to develop a knowledgeable, well-trained work force
- Internships and apprenticeships, whether in the tourism industry or any other field, provide our students with valuable workplace experience
- Through these types of programs, our students can experience firsthand the application of the principles they have learned in the classroom
- And it also provides opportunities for them to connect with members of the business community that they will join after graduation
- In addition, these programs allow our state's businesses to become a part of the education process – to help shape and mature the next generation of South Carolina's workforce
- I am glad that you all have decided to be a part of this summit today – to take the time to learn more about the programs and opportunities that currently exist
- And I hope that you will also use this occasion to explore new opportunities for internship programs – to gauge the changing needs of our State's tourism business community – and begin making plans for the next generation of workforce development
- Thank you

Our next episode airs on October 19 – so we will need all interviews shot before Oct 7 to allow for post-production. The program, produced by a number of state Farm Bureaus airs weekly on Wednesdays at 6:30 EST. The next installment will feature the strength of agricultural voices in South Carolina – as agribusiness is the state's largest economic sector. I will be the interviewer and plan to ask the Governor general questions about the power of agriculture in South Carolina, the importance of hearing from farmers and farm families as political decisions are made, etc. Others to be interviewed (with similar questions) include House, Senate, and agribusiness leaders around the state.

BACKGROUND:

The National Association of Insurance & Financial Advisors

NAIFA-South Carolina is a major force shaping the changing environment of life and health insurance and related financial services in South Carolina. Founded in 1935 and headquartered in Columbia, South Carolina, NAIFA-SC is a federation of 18 local associations representing over 1100 individuals engaged in insurance and financial services.

Since its inception NAIFA-SC has functioned as a non-profit organization maintaining close relations with the legislative and business communities to enhance the business atmosphere, improve professional skills and promote an ethical environment for the insurance industry.

NAIFA-SC member agents do much more than just sell insurance. They provide financial counseling and help individuals prepare for retirement and plan estates. They design employee benefits and compensation packages and provide employers with group health, pensions, and 401(k) plans. Our members work hard to see that their clients get the best insurance programs to fit their needs.

Our member agents occupy the unique position of liaison between the purchasers and the suppliers of life, health and multiline insurance and other closely-related financial products. Inherent in this role is the combination of professional duty to the client and to the company, as well. A strong ethical balance is required to avoid any conflict between these two obligations, which is why they must adhere to a strict Code of Ethics

Mission Statement

To promote high standards of ethical practice in the best interest of the insuring public. We educate, advocate, and motivate to improve the professional skills of our members who provide insurance and other closely related financial products.

Code of Ethics - The National Association of Insurance & Financial Advisors

Preamble: Those engaged in offering insurance and other related financial services occupy the unique position of liaison between the purchasers and the suppliers of insurance and closely related financial products. Inherent in this role is the combination of professional duty to the client and to the company as well. Ethical balance is required to avoid any conflict between these two obligations.

WHEREAS, life insurance can provide financial security following the death of a family member by helping survivors to meet immediate, ongoing, and future financial obligations and objectives; and

WHEREAS, while the majority of Americans believe that life insurance is part of a sound financial plan, millions of adults across the country have no life insurance, and many of those with coverage lack adequate life insurance protection; and

WHEREAS, the death of an insufficiently insured financial provider can result in hardship for surviving family members, especially during times of economic hardship with fewer resources for assistance and increased financial vulnerability;

and

WHEREAS, this year's observance of Life Insurance Awareness Month reminds consumers to review their life insurance needs, seek professional advice and take the necessary actions to help safeguard the future financial security of their families.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Nikki R. Haley, Governor of the Great State of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim September 2011 as throughout the state and encourage all South Carolinians to learn more about life insurance and its benefits.

PURPOSE: Governor will visit with local businesses and attendees of the Taste of Florence. She will address the small businesses at 5:45 PM and thank them for what they're doing, it's a pleasure to be in Florence, hope you'll enjoy some food and head over to the town hall.

INVITED BY: Deedee Vaughters.

INTRODUCED BY: Jennifer Hoover

LENGTH OF SPEAKING ROLE: 5 min.

PRESS: Yes.

PUBLIC: Yes.

BACKGROUND:

NOTE: We are expecting about 5,000 to attend based on tickets sold and taking into consideration that many will purchase tickets at the door.

The 1st Annual Taste of Florence is a family friendly, community-wide event that will showcase over 40 restaurants and dessert professionals from around the Pee Dee. Enjoy light entertainment and socializing with friends while you sample some of the best cuisine in the area. You'll want to "Savor Tuesday's Flavor." The event takes place at the Florence Civic Center on October 18, 2011 from 5pm to 9pm.

Guest Judges include Nathalie Dupree, author of 11 cookbooks with her most recent being "Southern Biscuits." WBTW Meteorologist Chris Still and Carolina Live host Cecil Chandler will also judge this year's participating vendors. A visit from South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley is also scheduled so guests will have many opportunities to visit with "famous" faces.

The Taste of Florence is sponsored in part by Adams Outdoor Advertising, Miller Communications with Star 93.7 and Frank FM, and OM Ships International. A live remote broadcast with Star 93.7 will take place during the event at the Florence Civic Center, located at 3300 West Radio Drive, Florence, South Carolina.

Admission tickets for the event may be purchased at Sweet! Gourmet Cupcakes, Bravo! Event and Party Rentals or Locals Grill for $5 in advance or $6 at the door. Students 18 and under are free with a paying adult. Once inside the ballroom guests may purchase food tickets for $1 each. Vendors will offer up to three items each, ranging in price from 1-3 food tickets.

What started as an idea to create a community event more than 18 months ago will get under way Tuesday at Florence Civic Center as the inaugural Taste of Florence, "Savor Tuesday's Flavor," gathers more than 40 area restaurants for a family-friendly event.

The idea began in July 2010 when Jennifer Hoover, Beth Behling and Rosalyn van Baaren were trying to come up with ideas for a community event for the city of Florence. After tossing around ideas, the three friends decided to model an event after the Taste of Myrtle Beach. Hoover contacted Stacey Pellicci, director of the Myrtle Beach event, and the plan began to come together.

"They were so helpful," Hoover said of Pellicci and her staff. "They just took us in and showed us the ropes."

More than a year later, the event is set to kick off. Old favorites such as Redbone Alley and Victor's Bistro will be there, along with Foodscapes of Lake City and Florence's new cupcake shop, Sweet.

"We are just so excited," Sweet owner Kyja Lee said. "I can't wait for people to try our cupcakes."

Sweet opened just a week ago and the Taste of Florence will offer the specialty shop the opportunity to show off its dozens of different kinds of cupcakes.

Tuesday

Foodscape's chef and owner Katherine Fridl will offer an entirely different kind of cupcake: a chipotle meatloaf with mashed potato frosting topped with chipotle aioli along with Lowcountry she-crab soup and a mixed green salad featuring honey from Stolen Honey Farms.

"Any event that exposes the public to a wide variety of (our area's) dining options is a good thing," Fridl said.

Admission to the event is $5 per adult; those younger than are admitted free. Tickets are available in advance from participating restaurants and at the door.

Once inside, visitors can buy tickets for $1 to exchange for food, which will range in price from one to three tickets.

The event runs from 5 to 9 p.m. Guest judges include Nathalie Dupree, author of 11 cookbooks with her most recent being "Southern Biscuits." WBTW meteorologist Chris Still and Carolina Live host Cecil Chandler will judge the participants' offerings. Gov. Nikki Haley also is scheduled to appear.

The organizers of the event have decided to donate their portion of the proceeds to The Kings Academy where their children attend school.

Constituent Meeting with Mrs. Charold Smith and Cameron Smith -- Governor's Office

BACKGROUND:

- (1) To meet with the Governor. She cannot wait until the Open Door session and will drive to Columbia to meet her as soon as possible..
- (2) To help her son who is being bullied. Cameron is a fifth grader at Allendale Elementary. Ms. Smith has talked to her son's teacher, principal, district superintendent, school board members, the Dept. of Education, and local police officers. The remedy she is seeking is to either have her son transferred to a different class at the school or to have a resource office or guidance counselor placed in his current class.

Jamie has talked to the Dept of Ed about this. Unfortunately, there is nothing that our office or theirs can do for her. Education is a local rule issue.

This is the only thing we can do:

We can send Mrs. Smith back to the Dept. of Ed to seek guidance on how to request a transfer to another school district (under No Child Left Behind, parents can seek waivers to have their children transferred to a non-failing district, and Allendale County School District is a failing school district). However, the Allendale School Boards refuses to enter into MOA's with neighboring districts, so the option for the parents in Allendale – including Mrs. Smith – is a nullity.

Chiropractic is America's third largest primary health care profession, exceeded in numbers only by dentists and medical doctors. Doctors of chiropractic practice a conservative, non-surgical method of care based on the premise that the body is capable of achieving and maintaining health through its own innate recuperative powers, provided that it receives the necessary elements including proper nutrition, clean air, water, rest, exercise, and a properly functioning nervous system.

12:10 – 12:30 p.m. – Special Remarks/Introduction by Tom Donohue

Thomas J. Donohue is president and CEO of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Since assuming his position in 1997, Donohue has built the Chamber into a lobbying and political powerhouse with expanded influence across the globe.

Donohue has aggressively advanced a competitiveness agenda that includes doubling U.S. exports in five years, strengthening capital markets, forging a national energy strategy, reforming health care and education, and protecting intellectual property rights. In addition, Donohue spearheaded the creation of the American Free Enterprise. Dream Big. campaign, a positive, long-term program to defend, protect, and advance a free enterprise system based on individual initiative, hard work, and personal responsibility—operating with free trade, free capital markets, and reasonable taxes and regulations.

During Donohue's tenure, the Chamber's lobbyists, policy experts, and communicators have helped secure many legislative victories, including major tax cuts, more sensible workplace and environmental regulations, and increased funding for transportation. On the international front, the Chamber has become a leader in knocking down trade barriers, winning new free and fair trade agreements, and fighting isolationism at home and abroad.

Under Donohue's leadership, the Chamber has also emerged as a major player in election politics, helping elect congressional pro-business candidates through financial support and voter activism generated through the Chamber's powerful grassroots program.

Donohue established the U.S. Chamber Institute for Legal Reform, which has won significant legal reforms in the courts, at the state and federal levels, and in elections for state attorneys general and supreme court judges. The National Chamber Litigation Center, the Chamber's law firm, has become more aggressive in challenging anti-business measures in court. In 2009, it entered 134 new cases of significance to the business community and helped secure 52 victories.

The National Chamber Foundation, the Chamber's public policy think tank, drives the policy debate on key topics and provides a forum where leaders advance cutting-edge issues facing the U.S. business community.

Donohue has also launched a number of multimillion-dollar initiatives around several key issues, including a national energy strategy, stronger capital markets, and protection of intellectual property.

Previously, Donohue served for 13 years as president and chief executive officer of the American Trucking Associations, the national organization of the trucking industry.

Donohue serves on two corporate boards of directors—Union Pacific Corporation and Sunrise Senior Living Corporation. He is president of the Center for International Private Enterprise, a program of the National Endowment for Democracy dedicated to the development of market-oriented institutions around the world.

Born in New York City in 1938, Donohue earned a bachelor's degree from St. John's University and a master's degree in business administration from Adelphi University. He holds honorary doctorate degrees from Adelphi, St. John's, and Marymount universities.

Donohue and his wife, Liz, live in Potomac, Maryland. They have three sons and four grandchildren.

BACKGROUND:

Her commentary on the importance of (aerospace) trade at the state/South Carolina level and how Governors can affect it positively would be just fine.

The Aerospace Industries Association, founded in 1919 only a few years after the birth of flight, is the premier trade association representing the nation's major aerospace and defense manufacturers.

Based in Arlington, Va., AIA is led by a Board of Governors that meets twice a year and consists of senior representatives (generally chief executive officers) of member companies, and an Executive Committee that meets more frequently. A hallmark of AIA is that it receives its policy guidance from the direct involvement of CEO-level officers of the country's major aerospace companies. The government frequently seeks advice from AIA on issues, and AIA provides a forum for government and industry representatives to exchange views and resolve problems on non-competitive matters related to the aerospace industry.

Today, more than 300 major aerospace and defense companies and their suppliers are members of the association, embodying every high-technology manufacturing segment of the U.S. aerospace and defense industry from commercial aviation and avionics, to manned and unmanned defense systems, to space technologies and satellite communications.

Marion C. Blakey is the association's chief executive officer and president. AIA member company representatives sit on various councils and committees in these areas and, supported by AIA staff, formulate industry positions on specific issues for approval by the Executive Committee and the Board of Governors.

The association concentrates on issues covering civil aviation, space, national security, international and procurement & finance. In addition the association has offices for Communications, Legislative Affairs, and Membership Services, the Supplier Management Council, the Team America Rocketry Challenge and the Aerospace Research Center.

BACKGROUND:

Bamberg County has a number of great events scheduled for October. One of those will be the Chamber's Annual Banquet, held on Thursday, October 27, 2011 at Bamberg Job Corps Center, beginning at 6:00 PM.

Each year the Chamber Board looks for a keynote speaker who is from Bamberg County or has moved into the county and had a positive impact on Bamberg County. Four of our past keynote speakers include Dr. Cleveland Sellers, Jim Harrison, Judge Jack Early and Lonnie Carter, all are either from Bamberg County or valuable transplants in Bamberg County. This year the Honorable Governor Nikki Haley was on top of our keynote speaker wish list. But we are aware how busy a Governor is, so we knew it would be a long shot. After Nancy Foster made written contact with Gov. Haley, she spoke with her at the Masonite Announcement Ceremony in Denmark. The Governor was delighted to see Nancy, and greeted her with a big hug and told us she had already told her staff she wanted to speak at the Chamber Banquet. After a few phone calls and emails, we were able to confirm her as the Keynote Speaker for the 45th Annual Chamber Banquet.

Job creation is probably one of the greatest challenges faced by President Obama and all fifty governors now and in the foreseeable future. So the Chamber's Board of Directors thinks it is appropriate that the Chamber Banquet will be held at the Bamberg Job Corps Center. We owe Mr. Eric Jones, Bamberg Job Corps Center Director, Evelyn Stanley, Business Community Liaison, as well as all the students, managers, instructors and staff of the Bamberg Job Corps Center for making it possible for the Annual Chamber Banquet to be held on their campus. The Chamber also wants to thank the Bamberg Branch of the NAACP for helping the Chamber, when we needed to change our banquet date.

The Chamber will announce the Waddy Thompson Citizen of the Year, the Emma Ruth Dowling Unity Award recipient, and the Evelyn McMillan Chamber Volunteer of the Year at the Chamber Banquet. Be sure to attend so you can help honor the award winners and welcome Gov. Haley back to Bamberg County.

Individual tickets are $25 and may be purchased at the City Halls in Bamberg, Denmark, Ehrhardt, and Olar, in addition to the Chamber's office and from Chamber Board members. If you wish to be Platinum, Gold or Silver Sponsor contact, Demmie Raysor at (803) 245-4427.

merchant Drew Hooten, is now the hub of art and history in Bamberg County with changing art exhibitions, concerts and lectures on Bamberg County history.

- Nearby, is Rivers Bridge State Historic Site, which features earthen fortifications from a battle on February 2-3, 1865 during one of the Confederacy's last stand against General William T. Sherman's sweep across the South. Today, Rivers Bridge is on the National Register of Historic Places and is the only State Historic Site in South Carolina that commemorates the Civil War.
- In the County is the town of Denmark. Denmark is home to numerous antique and art shops, including the home gallery for Jim Harrison, a world famous artist and Order of the Palmetto recipient.
- Denmark is also home to Voorhees College, a historically black college affiliated with the Episcopal Church.
- The South Carolina National Heritage Corridor has given $88,200 in grant funding to Bamberg County.

PUBLIC: Yes.

BACKGROUND:

They would like Governor to focus on economic development, job creation/training, they're interested in hearing about her fight for Boeing/NLRB, and other issues they may find of interest related to her position as Governor.

Hillsdale College, in conjunction with the Acton Institute and the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities, launched its Center for the Study of Monetary Systems and Free Enterprise. As part of its educational mission, the Center administers two programs to promote understanding and appreciation of free market systems: the Free Market Forum and the Visiting Speakers Program.

As its inaugural event, in the fall of 2006 the College hosted the first Free Market Forum on "The Role of Markets and Governments in Pursuing the Common Good." The program included presentations by Rev. Robert Sirico of the Acton Institute, Richard Epstein of the University of Chicago Law School, and author George Gilder. In addition, four panel discussions covered a wide range of topics that incorporated free market strategies:

The Rise of the U.S. to Economic Superpower
The Great Depression and the New Deal
The Role of the Federal Reserve
Globalization and the U.S. Economy

The Free Market Forum seeks to encourage the study of free enterprise. Consequently, over 50 invitees, including faculty members from colleges and universities around the country with ties to the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities or the Acton Institute, attended as guests of the Free Market Forum. Included in this group were representatives from ten state-based policy centers. These scholars and state policy leaders came together for a dynamic exchange of information, to enhance the discussions at the colloquium and to encourage the exchange of ideas in the future.

Read the papers given at the 2006 Free Market Forum.

The second Free Market Forum on "The Role of Markets and Governments in Pursuing the Common Good" was held on the campus of Hillsdale College on September 27-29, 2007. Over 100 faculty members and state policy leaders from across the United States and Canada attended the discussions. Evening speakers included Walter Williams, Burton Folsom, Jr., and Mark Steyn. Six panel discussions filled the remainder of the weekend:

Monetary Policy and the Common Good
The Legacy of Milton Friedman
How to Teach Economics
Globalization and the Common Good
The Moral Foundations of Classical Economics
Christian Benevolence and the Welfare State
Read the papers given at the 2007 Free Market Forum.

Due to the growth of the program, the third annual Free Market Forum was held in Dearborn, Michigan, on September 25-27, 2008. Almost 400 faculty members, state policy leaders, and other guests gathered to hear the opening address by political analyst Karl Rove. Other evening speakers were Jonah Goldberg and world renowned economist Hernando de Soto. Once again, over 100 faculty members and state policy leaders from across the United States and Canada took part in the weekend. Professor Ken Elzinga provided valuable insights on "How to Teach Economics" in his Saturday morning lecture. Four panel discussions rounded out the three-day event:

Markets and Politics
Freedom and the Environment
21st Century Challenges to Property Rights
The Theoretical Roots of American Bureaucracy
Read the papers given at the 2008 Free Market Forum.

HILLSDALE COLLEGE

Founded in 1844, Hillsdale College is an independent, coeducational, residential, liberal arts college with a student body of about 1,400. Its four-year curriculum leads to the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree, and it is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Hillsdale's educational mission rests upon two principles: academic excellence and institutional independence. The College does not accept federal or state taxpayer subsidies for any of its operations.

Located in rural southern Michigan, the nearly 200-acre Hillsdale campus includes both modern and historic buildings. Excellent facilities include comfortable residence halls, subject-specific computer labs, a state-of-the-art health education and sports complex, Michael Alex Mossey Library with its Leighton-Taylor Wing, the Sage Center for the Arts, the Herbert Henry Dow Science Building, Howard Music Hall and two new classroom buildings—Kendall Hall and Lane Hall. Adjacent to the campus is the model primary and secondary school, Hillsdale Academy, whose comprehensive Reference Guide is used in hundreds of schools throughout the country.

October 28, 2011 ContinuedFriday

An ideal student-to-faculty ratio of 10-to-1, rigorous academics, intramural sports, national fraternity and sorority houses and widespread community volunteerism nurture intellectual, physical, social and personal growth. A broad perspective is encouraged through opportunities for off-campus internships, overseas study programs and the adjunct seminars of the Center for Constructive Alternatives, Mises Lectures in free-market economics, the National Leadership Seminars and the Hoogland Center for Teacher Excellence.

Goals

My goals for the SCFRW are to bring women together to make a positive impact on the politics of our state, to recruit men and women to run for office at the local, state and national level who believe in the Republican Platform and to educate our members on issues.

Now, more than ever it is vital to know where elected officials stand on issues. Our voice is as powerful as we make it. There is strength in numbers, so an increase in membership and new clubs will provide us with more influence. Improving communication between SCFRW and the local units will ensure a more successful organization.
