Gov. Nikki Haley Honors Clemson University National Football Champions
Tigers' Flag Will Fly Atop Statehouse Dome

COLUMBIA, S.C. - Governor Nikki Haley ordered a Clemson University flag be flown over the Statehouse on Tuesday, January 10, in honor of the Tigers' national football championship.

"I'm a proud Clemson alum, I'm a proud governor, and I'm a proud South Carolinian," the governor said. "Clemson showed their heart and humility throughout the entire season, and in an unforgettable national championship victory, they reminded us that, with faith and hard work, anything is possible. That's what defines South Carolina."

Previous national championship teams honored with flags flown over the Statehouse include: Clemson University football (1981), University of South Carolina baseball (2010, 2011) and Coastal Carolina University baseball (2016).
