John:

I've always supported you and never offered advice but feel the need to do so now. The above referenced matter needs to be aggressively nipped in the bud. This young woman in question didn't wake up one morning and decide to attend The Citadel. It's obviously a calculated attempt to use our alma mater as a high visibility tool to further and expand the Muslim agenda. The demands will only increase. There have been many other events in recent years that have threatened The Citadel ( integration, Shannon Faulkner, errant alumni, etc) but this one rises over all the others. If your administration and the BOV caves to political correctness and allows any version of this unconscionable intrusion to occur, a great many loyal, supportive alumni will abandon the school and the names of post 9-11 war dead inscribed at Summerall Chapel will be forever dishonored.
