Hi Katherine,

Here are the edited photos we discussed. Most of it is pretty straightforward. On the desk picture, I had to bring them in fairly tight or else it made the Governor appear small due to the angle of the shot. For your headshot, my personal vote would be for Headshot 2. On the White House pics, the first one just has the red eye removed, the second one has the painting colors toned down, the third one is a tighter shot, cutting out most of the painting. I'll leave these open for now. Let me know if you'd like any other changes. Oh, and I didn't touch the professional family photo. It looks perfect to me.

Thanks!

Justin
