Remember Marsh, the loggerhead rescued from the marsh at Huntington Beach State Park? Well, after some great care at the SC Aquarium Sea Turtle Hospital, we are happy to announce that Marsh was released yesterday at the Isle of Palms! Marsh was the 199th sea turtle to be rehabbed and released by the hospital. We are overjoyed that Marsh could return home. Read more about Marsh here: <http://www.scaquarium.org/marsh>

Hydie Simons Kirkland Great work !!!!

Laura Rusinko Another great job. Can't wait till this release can hang in the New Nature Center. Hopefully things will go quickly and the new center is built.

Marilyn Moran Great to hear...interesting tho' they Marsh was released so far from where he/she was rescued. I guess location isn't a factor like it would be for a dolphin.
