Lisa Wilson I don't give 2 s$#!s about the splash pad. A 3 dollar jump in price because it is available-- really? Why not have that as a separate charge. They do make cheap bands for such things. I generally come with my adult sons. One loves taking pictures and the other loves the amount of space he can run/ walk in. I DID LIKE just coming for the environment because of my health I can't keep up with my guys but can sit and enjoy nature and maybe have a nice lunch with my family.

Money is tight for me and many so while you may think that this is not a big deal WE DO. I have my niece one or two times a year maximum she is the ONLY reason I would Consider This, but still not likely as her older brother would be bored to death with this. He and my one son have issues with being around lots of other people and 'performing' so even if he wasn't 14 I know that my nephew would NOT get on this splash paid.

I truly hope you decide to NOT make every person PAY for what you decided to add.

Charge those who will use.

Buy bands or stamps that needs scrubbed off not just a little water.

Brenda Youngblood A state park pass is $50 let's you get in all the inland state parks for everyone in your car group. Pays for itself in just 2-3 visits.

Lisa Wilson Thanks Brenda Wright Youngblood. Unaware of that . will have to look for details. I assuming that the state Park site may have this information???

at 22:13:59 on 6/19/2016 UTC

Brenda Youngblood Lisa Wilson yes they will. I had originally asked on this thread if that could be used here too. And they said yes.

Tonji Baker Keep your eyes open for thirsty snakes. The first time my daughter and her preschool went out there it was nice, not too hot yet. The 2nd time they went out there they had a visitor not too far away from the picnic table near the pad. Turns out it was a Water Moccasin. That was their LAST time going!!

Erika Evans You could go to Lake Murray beach part. It's 3$ per car. That's what I've been doing. Green space, bring some snacks. And just do the other local parks for free. I really don't care to pay for this because some other free speak pads are better. Drew wellness has a great one. And an indoor pool with free play 2-5. I thought this would be covered with the original price as well. I speed going when they raised the price. Might think about it come fall or winter. Check the Columbia parks and rec page....they have a list of all the free splash pads and pools.

Erika Evans Np Lisa Wilson. If you can can a hold off some zoo passes, especially free ones, plan the day around it. They have a huge kids area with a waterfall...in case you haven't been already. The riverfront park canal had nature walks/fish passage tours on Tuesdays 6-7pm & Wednesdays 6-7, and Saturdays not sure if it's 10am or 11am. They are pretty cool especially for kids. The rangers are amazing. Beth and Royce are great!!! My boys (10 & 5)love them. They also do tours at other parks Granby, etc....FREE !!! Which is my style, lol! They said Granby had walking trails and water scene so you can sit and relax. Also at riverfront. We ride bikes. I'm all about free and low cost for me 😊. I how this helps!

Erika Evans And BBQ or picnic at the lake site. For the zoo (really all activities) we use camel packs full of water (you can get bigger sizes to accommodate your level of hydration), and some lunch tucked in each one....I'm not paying 4$ for a small Gatorade...bump dat! Lol! Night guys enjoy your summer!!!

Last thing....if you have a4th grader. They whole family gets into national parks free until August 2016. It's been a year long program. But only families of forth graders. I happen to have one so we signed up. Doesn't work on state parks to. Does work on some wild life reserves. Go to the national parks Web site for details. AND ITS FREEEEEEEE TO SIGN UP....FOR THE FREE ENTRY INTO ALL NATIONAL PARKS!!!!!!😊😊😊😊😊
