South Carolina Department of Transportation (SCDOT) Acting Deputy Secretary for Engineering Leland Colvin announced this afternoon that Spears Creek Church Road in northeast Richland County has been reopened. This road was closed following October's historic flooding.

"Spears Creek Church Road is a major route in northeast Richland County," Colvin said. "Our engineers looked for temporary, emergency repairs to return this road to service as soon as possible. We are grateful to the community for their support and patience, and want to thank the team that worked so diligently to open the road."
