Summer vacations are over, the kids are back in school and football season is in full swing. After taking a few months off, voters are back engaged and paying attention to what you're doing. If you're not hitting it hard online, you are quickly falling behind. We're here to handle your entire online operation like we do for the Wisconsin Republican Party.

The fight over Obamacare and the subsequent shutdown are the big issues on everyone's minds, and they're dominating online traffic. Over the past few weeks, we've been super busy helping new clients like Congressman Greg Walden, Congressman Tom Graves and Congressman Frank Lucas drive their messages through advertising, social media and email.

Repealing ObamaCare will require us to take back the United States Senate, so we have to step up and elect Congressman Tom Cotton.

While our eyes are on the Senate, we must also expand our majority in the House. A great place to start is in Georgia's 12th district where Rick Allen is up against liberal John Barrow.

It hasn't all been campaign fun over the past months. We've also been helping a number of issue advocacy groups, charities and businesses.

You can view our entire portfolio, including websites, social images and advertisements, on Pinterest.com.
