Subject: furniture

Steven,

I marked furniture in the two rooms you pointed out and in the hallway.

I had picked a conference table that was in the hall down towards your end on the side of the window, and had put my name on it, and mentioned to Mira that I wanted that table. I noticed today that the table is no longer there, (it was the same type of small conference table that's in Annie's office) and it's been replaced by another (cr____) table.

I had also selected the lateral file with hutch that's outside Jimmy's office, but Mira wasn't real thrilled about giving it to me, and my name isn't on it any more.

I frankly am REALLY tired of dealing with this. I think Mira needs to understand that she was given instructions, and it's not up to her to make changes. Or did I misunderstand that?

At any rate, I put my name on the furniture that I wanted, which consists of a desk, a left return computer hutch, a square corner piece, a credenza and the lateral file with hutch, plus the small conference table that had been in the hall.

Mira said she is buying 2 bookshelves.

I've cleared out my office and Peggy Fouty knows where everything needs to go, so please have Mira get her when they're ready to move the stuff.

Just so you know how little I appreciate how this has been done, several people have commented about the furniture in my office, asking me who I ticked off (jokingly). But I don't think it's funny. I'm gonna quit now before I get myself into another lather (I had to cool down before I sent this to you). I would just appreciate a little respect. It's pathetic that as an administrator I have to beg to get decent looking furniture.

Thanks Steven. Have a great holiday. I won't be back until after Christmas, and I would appreciate it if the furniture could be moved while I'm gone.
