Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

Deputy Assistant Director, Older Americans

Are you ready to help older adults and their families protect and take more control of their financial lives?

Do you want to provide the tools and information that will help older adults reach their financial goals, help remove the roadblocks that may prevent them from achieving those goals, and address policy issues that affect older adults in the consumer financial services marketplace? If so, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) may be right for you!

About the CFPB

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is an independent federal agency built to protect consumers. We write and enforce rules that keep banks and other financial companies operating fairly. We also educate and empower consumers, helping them make more informed choices to achieve their financial goals.

The Office of Financial Protection for Older Americans (Office for Older Americans) within the CFPB leads the Bureau's financial education, consumer protection policy, and other work to enhance and support the financial security of older adults. The Office for Older Americans engages in policy and educational initiatives designed to protect older Americans from unfair, deceptive, or abusive consumer finance practices, including elder financial exploitation. The Office also works to help older consumers make sound financial decisions that may affect their financial security later in life.

The Office for Older Americans is part of the CFPB's Division of Consumer Education and Engagement.

Your impact

As the Deputy Assistant Director for the Office for Older Americans, you will work closely with the Office's Assistant Director to:

- Lead a small, dedicated, and experienced team to develop and implement initiatives that address the specific consumer financial protection and financial education needs of older adults, their families, and their caregivers.
- Provide a public voice for the Bureau's efforts on behalf of the older adults.
- Set organizational tone and direction, and engage closely with inside the Division and across the CFPB.

What we're looking for

We are seeking a proven leader in the field of older adult financial education, financial consumer protection for older adults, or a closely related field. This leadership experience may be in policy or program development, financial education, or providing direct service to older adults. Applicants should have extensive expertise in developing and scaling major projects, tools, or approaches to help older adults protect and take more control of their financial lives. Strong candidates will also have experience identifying and implementing solutions to consumer financial policy issues impacting older adults, such as elder financial exploitation, financial decision-making in the context of diminished capacity, or consumer protection regulation of consumer financial products used by older adults.

Ready for the challenge?

We're currently soliciting interest prior to the posting of the official vacancy announcement. We anticipate that the posting will occur shortly. If you send a note at jobs@cfpb.gov with the phrase "DAD-Office for Older Americans" in the subject line, we will notify you when the position opens for applications. Or, if you want more info, let us know at the same address and we will get back to you. Please note that we can consider only those applicants who apply against the posting.
