Kirsten Nicholson I've actually seriously been considering becoming a park ranger but I'm nearly 30 and my degree is not in park management. Any suggestions on steps I should take to make that dream a reality?

Scott Bolser Yeah the whole park management degree has kept me from ever applying for a position.

Fran Sanderson I want to be a park ranger!!! Wish the parks hired librarians. I'd be all over that... Plus, if they let me do tours of the park too, ... dream... job...

Brandon Steger Most park rangers don't have "Park Ranger" specific degrees. Just about any bachelor degree will qualify you. An associates degree will get you hired, but you won't have as much opportunity for advancement.

Sarah Fresch Davis 3 courses away from my degree and just applied for three different ranger positions with the state!

Elizabeth Laney Kirsten Nicholson - You don't need a degree in park management. We have park rangers who are historians, biologists and have degrees in a variety of fields. Fran Sanderson - If you love giving tours there are lots of possibilities including the state's historic plantation sites.
