

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20170829South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10155680603403166

South Carolina State Parks

at 12:52:53 on 8/29/2017 UTC · 🌐

Phew, what stinks? With our summer afternoon showers, mushrooms have been popping up everywhere. Some are particularly stinky--like this stinkhorn mushroom. The dark green slime has an odor that attracts bugs. They fly in and eat the stinky slime, all the while standing in stinkhorn spores. The bugs fly away and spread the stinkhorn spores as they go! Now you know!

Michelle Crouse Walters It's an awful smell! You won't forget it, especially if you step on one!

at 13:19:51 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Jenni Hayes McAda We had that in our yard in Conway once. New mulch brought it in. The worst thing I have ever smelled.

at 13:27:37 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Jennifer Smith Haig I was convinced there was a dead animal near my house when this stuff popped up.

at 13:29:20 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Devon Jeremy Victoria Kramer

at 13:51:33 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Stacey Lowry Becca Ewers another useless fact for Jacob. Lol

at 14:20:49 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Becca Ewers My little brother used to love to kick those things at me.

at 14:24:25 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Jeannie Hogan Marj Linnin hmmmm.....wonder what they'd say about your 'special' mushrooms 🍄

at 14:33:31 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Sandra Dotson Evans I don't usually gag but when I pulled these out of my backyard it was the worst thing I have ever smelled and covered in flies. Majorly disgusting!

at 15:43:04 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Ray Wilkes Melissa

at 19:45:37 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Rusty N Bob Gillies I grow them...🍄

at 22:15:55 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Anne Rogers I can smell them the minute I walk outside. I don't need to see them. The common name is penis mushrooms! Sorry!!!!
at 23:47:10 on 8/29/2017 UTC

Marj Linnin 😊😊😊
at 20:25:27 on 8/30/2017 UTC