Document Process Intelligence - Driving Your Document-Centric Processes to Success

You're invited to attend our webinar: "Document Process Intelligence: Driving Your Document-Centric Processes to Success"

Information capture is critical to your business. But lack of real-time analytics can hold you back. Do you struggle with:

- Identifying potential fail points and inefficiencies before they cause business loss?
- Tracking the overall process flow of every document, from initial prep to final storage or workflow?
- Measuring the level of performance of each step of the process?

Addressing these key challenges requires document process intelligence: new, specialized analytics that provide actionable, operational insights targeted to any document-driven processing environment—in ways typical business intelligence (BI) and reporting tools can't.

Attend our webinar and discover how businesses are using document process intelligence in conjunction with Kofax and other enterprise technology investments to provide new levels of analytics, insight and context:

- Improve process analytics: track adherence with operational best practices, including measuring overall process execution
- Improve process quality and compliance: detect inefficiencies and operational failures in real-time
- Track information flow and gain actionable insights: leverage operational dashboards

Register now for this exclusive webinar—and discover the key to improving your document-centric processes.
