Subject: Death in parking lot

Austin and Rob – just wanted to keep you in the loop. We had the mother of a customer of ours die in the parking lot of our North Myrtle Beach Office. A good SITREP is provided below for your review. I cannot foresee backlash coming from the incident, BUT wanted to keep you both in the loop just in case any press does come from the case. Thanks!

Kevin

We had a customer that waited in line and paid his reinstatement fees and took the beginner permit test. The customer failed the permit test and cursed at both the manager and ABS-1 because we would not allow him to take the test again today. The customer left the building. Several minutes later another customer came in and said that a lady had died in a vehicle in the parking lot. The lady that died in the parking was the mother of the customer that took the test and failed. We are in a county building and the Horry County police, Horry Count EMS and Horry County coroner responded. To our knowledge the lady that died never came in our office. Below is the information for the customer that was at our office that failed the test. We were just making you aware in case anything came up.
