Hey Chaney,

I covered Mia McLeod's press conference earlier today in which she called for the resignation of Rec Commission executive director James Brown III and five of the Recreation Commission's board members.

Here's the link to what I've got so far: <http://www.thestate.com/news/local/article98580812.html>

Rep. James Smith has hinted some members of the Richland County delegation will ask Gov. Haley to remove Brown and the five board members if they do not resign.

Does Haley have any intention of doing so?

At what point would she consider getting involved and making changes?

What are the criteria for removing someone from a public body like the Recreation Commission?

Does there have to be an indictment or some kind?

All the best,
-Avery
