South Carolina State Parks

at 13:15:01 on 3/02/2021 UTC

Anglers, campers and hikers will now have a smoother ride into Little Pee Dee State Park. The South Carolina Department of Parks, Recreation & Tourism, along with local and state leaders, hosted a ribbon cutting for the park's new road, yesterday! The original road was built in the 1950s. In 2016, Hurricane Matthew breeched the dam at Lake Norton – the park's 54-acre lake. The heavy trucks and machinery that were used to repair the dam created potholes and problems for the old road. After six months of work and collaboration with the SCDOT, and years of support from the community, the new road is now open to all campers and visitors. Come see us! www.southcarolinaparks.com/little-pee-dee Ryan Horne Thank God! It was awful!

Harriet Stevens Blanton Great day in SC at Little Pee Dee State Park.....A beautiful day to celebrate a major improvement at LPD. Thanks to all who had a hand in getting the road paved and thanks to Rangers Emily and Charlie for continuous park improvements. LPD State Park is a hidden gem many local and out-of-state travelers, are finding. ♥ this park.

Laura Tadlock Shuman Yay! It is a wonderful park but the road was terrible!

at 21:59:25 on 3/02/2021 UTC

Brent Mitchell Croft state park needs this done ASAP. It's a safety, tourism, and pride issue. The road is in horrible shape. My understanding is the state DOT is responsible for the resurfacing that desperately needs to be done.

at 0:15:45 on 3/03/2021 UTC

Marsha Moore I love that road. My grandda was park Ranger in the 70's also I remember Mr. NORTON AND HIS WIFE. WONDERFUL MEMORIES THERE. I miss the way it use to be tho.
