

State of South Carolina
Proclamation
by Governor Jim Hodges

WHEREAS, America's system of public lands includes parks, unique landscapes, forests, wildlife refuges, historic trails, natural streams and wetlands, nature centers, gardens, and other landmark areas throughout the nation that individually and collectively represent irreplaceable natural resources; and

WHEREAS, public lands throughout the Palmetto State provide locally accessible natural and cultural resources for education, wildlife appreciation, and recreation, while promoting shared stewardship of our environment; and

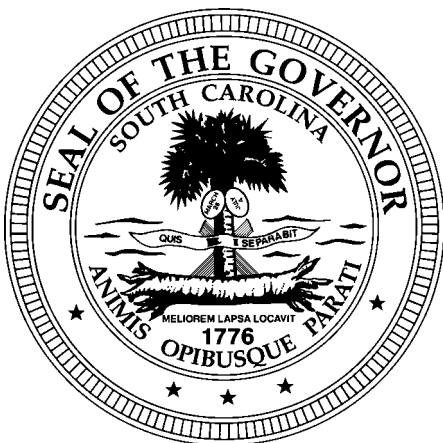

WHEREAS, working together to promote land conservation, planned development, shared land use, restoration, and enhancement efforts helps to ensure the preservation of wildlife areas and natural habitats; and

WHEREAS, during the 2001 celebration of "National Public Lands Day", volunteers throughout South Carolina and the nation will donate their time restoring and enhancing federal, state, and local public lands.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Jim Hodges, Governor of the Great State of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim September 29, 2001, as

throughout the state and encourage all South Carolinians to recognize the importance of protecting and preserving our public lands now and for future generations.

Jim Hodges
