Learn2Earn supplies a needed workforce

The Strom Thurmond Career and Technology Center, in Edgefield County, saw a need for auto mechanics in a growing industry. Partnering with DEW, the Learn2Earn program was developed to provide job training to area students and adults. A grant was provided to support this program and to create other opportunities in healthcare, advanced manufacturing, transportation and distribution and logistics industries. DEW launches new website

The S.C Department of Employment and Workforce unveiled its new website this week. Always focused on the goal of connecting jobseekers and employers, the new website efficiently hosts information about unemployment, helping people find jobs, matching businesses with qualified candidates and collecting and disseminating state and federal statistics, among other information.
