My granddaughter has the same disease and DSS took her away arrested her mother. She was given back to our family after about 21 months when diagnosed properly. Medical field needs to be educated about this disease

I know this family well and I know the complications that mattie went through during her pregnancy. I also know that neither one of them would harm their child or anyone else, these are two loving, caring people that would give you the shirt off their back. I personally have prayed with them for many years for God to allow them to have a child and their prayers were answered only to be destroyed by Satan better known as the illegal court system in south carolina. I have always been proud to say that I was from sc, but with honest families losing their children while there are actually children being abused and murdered everyday, I think something is definitely wrong with our legal system protecting our children. I feel that it has become more of a way to make money and not a source of protection for children. It's almost like if a child is taken by medical kidnapping the government steps in and pays big money while the children that are really being murdered, missing or abused are forgotten about and put on the back burner like little Leona Wright for instance. This family deserves to have McKinsey back home, where she belongs, with her mommy and daddy

I suffer from vitamin d deficiency and mixed connective tissue disease so I know how easily it is to bruise and take a chance on breaking a bone. I have broke the same bone twice.
