

State of South Carolina
Proclamation
by Governor Jim Hodges

WHEREAS, the 1963 Equal Pay Act, signed by President John F. Kennedy, made it illegal for employers to pay women less than men for jobs that are “substantially equal”; and

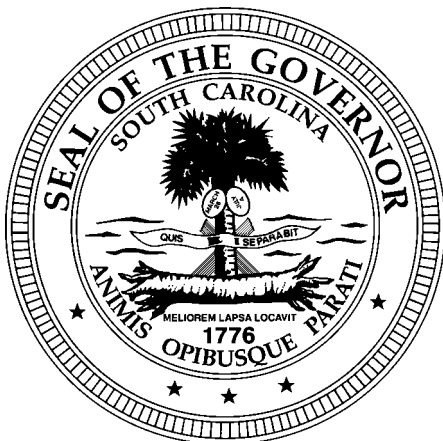

WHEREAS, although the gap in annual salaries between men and women has decreased over the last forty years, women are still frequently paid less to do the same job; and

WHEREAS, because wage disparities can often determine whether families can afford child care, health care, and safe retirement, fair and equal pay strengthens both families and the economy of the State of South Carolina.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Jim Hodges, Governor of the Great State of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim April 16, 2002, as throughout the state and encourage all South Carolinians to recognize the positive impact of equal pay on the future growth of the Palmetto State.

EQUAL PAY DAY

Jim Hodges
