scstateparks Hey, hey. Don't give us that look, it's #WildlifeWednesday. - Mink are seldom found far away from water and they inhabit saltwater marshes, river swamps, and small wooded streams, making Huntington Beach State Park the perfect habitat. - The fur is dark brown, usually black at the tip of the tail and white under the chin. In some mink, a white blaze may also be present on the chest or throat..like our friend here! 🐾 - Head to Huntington Beach State Park and see what wildlife you can spot. 📷: @imajenationphotos

steven_snipes Huntington Beach State Park is one of my favorite birding places. I have never been fortunate enough to catch a glimpse of the resident minks. @saffy_0077
