Subject: Re: IRS whistleblower cases - Calvin C. Hoagland

David you continue to be in denial of the facts . First SC IRS agent is completely wrong and you are in fact 100% in violation this is a proven fact . It is not being enforced !!!! I repeat the entire structure and control of this Charleston Cvb that you represent is abusive and committing unfair trade , business and competitive practices , violating local media and members that your structure calls investors which is completely abusive in itself . Your are violating SC Foia laws and hope to have a favorable ruling on this soon . I repeat I have asked for an in-depth deep investigation on not only your law firms representation of Helen Hill , but Hill Construction , all Helen hills forms of income , travel , expenses and much more in how our tax dollars are being used and invested by her . The abuse , violations and different forms of corruption must end in SC. Further David after meeting with you and as I shared with you and David Rosen I feel you do not know enough about the Internet and the way its being used by this Cvb to abuse our system to even represent this Cvb . You did not even know what key word traffic with Google meant .

My suggestion to you and your uneducated local IRS agent is read the 501-c6 tax code . Its specific and easy for anyone to understand and the violations when compared to the present way this Cvb is operated .

David one question what is Helen Hills total compensation not just salary include all expenses , travel , all perks ? I want to see all bank accounts , credit cards , all. We have IRS form 990 this form is abusive as well and does not show all forms of possible abuse and violations . The IRS must require much more info on these 990 forms . The good news is they show just enough to see that we are others need to dig deeper . We have filed a IRS form 211 whistle blower case against your client , and did so for good reason . We have asked for an in depth investigation as well for good reason.

David if you have nothing to hide are you willing to open up to Foia or a third party audit ? I will pay for all? If not why ? Do you feel your client can receive tax dollars and hide ? Do you feel your client can sell advertising as a non profit and profit , compete with local media who pays taxes for schools , roads , military etc and your client pays none ? David you might be a good lawyer , but I will give you a low score as a business man if you don't understand all this. Your emails like this in response to mine just weakens your case and proves how out of touch you are . The days of people thinking our Chambers and CVBs are just empowered to do as they wish are over and coming to an end .

Thanks

Good morning Skip. It is always good to hear from you. I have reviewed the 3 emails that I received on Friday and do not see anything new. I understand that you don't like our answers, but we have addressed your concerns both by phone, email, and in person. I don't have anything to add to our earlier communications but would remind you that the IRS recently conducted a full audit on the Charleston Area CVB and looked at the same issues that you are raising. They found that CACVB was properly operating under its 501(c)(6) status and owed no taxes. Have a great day.

David

Mr. Glikman,

Please review the attachments above. We are frustrated by the lack of IRS support for this program.

Skip Hoagland has requested that we confirm parts of certain conversations that we have had with you.

First, please confirm for us that the above claims remain pending with the IRS Whistleblower program.

Also please confirm that we have discussed that it was appropriate to file our claims in a group filing in the manner above and that this was in direct accordance with your personal instruction.

As an additional measure intended to protect Mr. Hoagland's claims - please be advised that we intend to resubmit all of the above claims individually through the Washington office.

We believe that we have submitted more than 6000 pages of documents. We will move forward to obtain individual claim numbers for each entity in violation.

Best regards,

Rob Martin
