Subject: Awareness Weeks?

Hi Rob & Chaney,

Following last week's meeting with the Governor, Director Stenson mentioned that you would like to do something 'awareness related' over the next few weeks. We've got our annual Severe Weather Awareness Week coming up, it's scheduled for March 6-12 with a tornado drill for schools on March 9. We're meeting with the National Weather Service today to see if they would be flexible to the idea of combining their annual Flood Safety week (which is right after Severe Weather) into one week, the result would be a South Carolina Severe Weather and Flood Safety Week... makes a lot of sense since most of our flooding is typically due to severe weather.

We're open to any and all idea and would welcome a fresh perspective on this. Call me any time, thanks! Derrec
