Hello Chaney,

I hope you had a nice weekend and that all is well. I'm following up quickly to see if you had a chance to review our request for an interview with Mr. Haley. We would love the opportunity to hop on the phone with you to discuss our story in more detail.

Thanks so much! Looking forward to hearing from you.

Best,
Andrea

Dear Chaney,

I'm a producer with the Emmy-winning weekly documentary series, VICE, which airs on HBO and is often referred to as 60 Minutes for a millennial audience. Our company is gearing up for our newest venture with HBO – a nightly news show – for which we are currently developing stories.

My colleague (cc'd) and I are working on a story about how spousal roles are changing as women increasingly take leadership positions in public service. More specifically, we want to know what life is like for the men whose wives hold office, and how they're breaking new ground as "First Gentlemen."

Mr. Michael Haley is one of the best examples of a First Gentleman who has successfully taken on the role all the while having a professional career. As such, we'd be honored to interview him if he is inclined. We have a massive viewership, particularly among young viewers, and we think that our visit might also be a way for the Governor and her team – including First Gentleman Haley - to reach more people.

If you are unfamiliar with our work, please feel free to check out some examples, including an interview with President George W. Bush about his legacy to fight AIDS in Africa, as well as an interview with US Secretary of Defense Ashton Carter about national security in relation to Russia and the Middle East.

Thank you for considering our request. At your earliest convenience, our team can provide additional details and answer any outstanding questions.

Kindest regards,
Andrea
