

April 6, 2016

To All Concerned

my wife & I are starting our fourth year of suffering the wrongful & stupid decisions of Judge Heather R. Galvin & all other state leaders of the "Good de boy" clique. It does me real good to see the article in 330 G. Bradford Lyzette about the investigation of the legislative proceedings - Copy enclosed. In the case of my wife & I, I have asked for a full investigation many times with no results. What are all of you afraid of? I have the documentation to prove all of my statements & in several locations so you don't need to "raid" or "burn" my house. Judge Galvin believed a perjurous statement by Erin Fountain & never got a chance to say words. Now wrongful & stupid is that. All but none of you have the guts to answer because all of you Oath taking but not Oath following people are liars.

Hervey J. Lloyd

Call 849-271-1643

1609 Kitter Circle

Port Royal N.C. 29935

CORRUPTION INVESTIGATION

New special prosecutor to take over investigation

BY JOHN MONK
jmonk@thestate.com

COLUMBIA

A new special prosecutor has been appointed to take over the investigation of corruption within South Carolina's legislature, a day after the previous chief attorney on the case was fired.

"You have full authority to review the matter and this office will fully support whatever decision you deem appropriate," Chief Deputy Attorney General John McIntosh wrote to Solicitor Dan Johnson, the chief prosecutor for Richland and Kershaw counties, in a letter obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press.

"Our concern is not about the result of the investigation, but the integrity of the process and adherence to the rule of law."

On Monday, McIntosh removed Solicitor David Pascoe from the case, saying he was "deeply troubled" the prosecutor had tried to open a state grand jury probe into a redacted portion of a state police report without proper authority.

Pascoe responded in a letter of his own, saying he wouldn't step down without a court's intervention.

Attorney General Alan Wilson had designated Pascoe to head up the prosecution against former House Speaker Bobby Harrell, who ultimately pleaded guilty to six misdemeanor campaign spending violations and resigned.

Prosecutors have said the probe is ongoing, but no lawmakers have been charged. State grand jury matters are conducted in secret, and filings associated with them are not publicly available.

But Monday, The State newspaper cited documents filed with the state Supreme Court in which Pascoe said he wanted to utilize the state grand jury but was being obstructed by Wilson.

In his Monday letter,

“OUR CONCERN IS NOT ABOUT THE RESULT OF THE INVESTIGATION, BUT THE INTEGRITY OF THE PROCESS AND ADHERENCE TO THE RULE OF LAW.”

Chief Deputy Attorney General John McIntosh

McIntosh referenced the story, saying Pascoe "sued the clerk of the state grand jury" to get his way in proceeding with his own investigation. In a statement, Wilson said that "multiple media leaks," combined with "an obvious abuse of power" led him to fire Pascoe.