Hi,
I'm Rachel Damgen, engagement editor at the Beaufort Gazette and Island Packet. I wanted to let you know about a competition we're starting this weekend: Broad River Madness.
We've created a bracket-style competition just for our corner of the Lowcountry, and Hunting Island could win it all.
Round 1, which includes 64 places and events in four categories, opens Sunday. The categories are: North of Broad Things to Do, North of Broad Places to See, South of Broad Things to Do and South of Broad Places to See. Hunting Island is in North of Broad Places to See.
Starting Sunday, you can vote at bit.ly/BroadRiverMadness1 as many times as you'd like until Round 1 closes at midnight March 20 (Friday). We hope you'll encourage your fans and friends to vote as well, ensuring Hunting Island makes it to the next round.
What Beaufort County thing to do or place to see will be the ultimate winner? Will a northern Beaufort County site or event conquer a southern Beaufort County one? Or will southern Beaufort County contender prevail? We'll find out when the whole battle closes at midnight April 7.
We'll have several rounds in the interim, and I'll be sure to let you know when voting re-opens in each round so you can get out the vote.
Let me know if you have any questions. And best of luck!
Remember to vote, starting Sunday at bit.ly/BroadRiverMadness1.
