FY16 funding still expected to be finalized this week

As of press time, the omnibus package that contains all 12 individual FY16 appropriations bills was still expected to be released on Dec. 15. Ongoing delays mean that the House and Senate will not debate the legislation until Dec. 17 at the earliest, so another short-term continuing resolution will be needed to keep the government open past Dec. 16. Follow us on Facebook and Twitter @NCOAging or check our Public Policy News for details when they're available.
