John,

Thanks for your prompt email.

Comments from among the 38,000 who have read this article as of just now:

on our facebook page do show a concern in the overall community and our tourist base that I am not sensing you share.

Please feel free to also read the few comments posted here:

Scroll to the bottom of this article. I found the comments from a local, Joyce Snow, who appears to be well informed on the matter, most telling.

Sincerely,

David -

Did you call the Police? Hopefully you did so at 11:03 PM last night. As I understand you are not a City resident, so as you know, the investigation of the matter would originate with the County. If the perpetrator of this crime resides in the City I am sure that we will be happy to provide any needed assistance to HCPD.

I have already looked into the specific matter that you suggest that I look into. I sat down with the Mitchells the same week that I committed to do so.

Finally, your suggestion that I should also look into the "overall crime in our City" is unnecessary. That effort occurs more often than daily. Because of the fine work of the Myrtle Beach Police officers, our crime rate is continuing to fall. Through October that reduction exceeds 11% for the year.
