Subject: Social Security Announces Top Ten Baby Names for 2014

Dear Colleague:

Today, Social Security announced the nation's most popular baby names for 2014. To see the top 10 baby names, visit Social Security's website and, while you are there, we encourage you to check out the agency's new bundle of joy, our interactive blog called Social Security Matters.

The blog encourages discussion and is a place where the public can engage in conversations with the agency about what matters most. This is the latest tool Social Security offers to help educate the public about Social Security programs and how to access agency services.

While you are having fun reviewing the top baby names and checking out our newborn interactive blog, take a few extra minutes to create a my Social Security account. This secure account allows you to have convenient online access to information in your Social Security record and manage your benefits once you start receiving them. Join the millions who have already signed up for my Social Security.

Please share this information with your colleagues, constituents, and other interested parties. As always, thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

J. Jioni Palmer
Associate Commissioner for External Affairs
