CONFIDENTIAL

Dear Administrators:

As you may have read or heard, there were several inaccurate media reports when the REAL ID grants were announced last week. Homeland Security Today (www.hstoday.org) made several mistakes in its report.

The website accused AAMVA of having "spilled the beans" by informing members of the DHS grants a day before the agency planned to announce them. In fact, DHS had briefed the Hill two days before we learned the news. By the time we informed our members, the information was widely known.

The HSToday story indicated that the hub will be an opportunity for AAMVA's current CDLIS vendor to net "as much as $240 million per year merely for maintaining commercial driver records". First it is not guaranteed that AAMVA will receive the hub contract as Missouri and the four pilot states will need to decide which option better serves the states and second, should AAMVA receive the hub contract, we would need to select the new vendor through a competitive process. We expect that the resulting contract would be well below the number mentioned in the article.

Best regards,

Neil
