We just purchased a house in Hilton Head Plantation on Hilton Head Island and were surprised at the cost of home owners insurance.

We are from Ohio and our insurance rates are one third the cost of the policy we had to purchase on our new house in South Carolina

It has come to my attention that the risks of loss are calculated by a firm that is not familiar with South Carolina nor Hilton Head Island.

It is also alleged that this firm does not appear to have qualified people to make these determinations

Please have your people look into this matter as this greatly effects the real estate market

After a three year study, Daryl Ferguson has concluded this area is getting a bad rap from insurance companies regarding hurricane risk. Residents are paying 30% to 50% too much for insurance and tourism is suffering. Mr. Ferguson needs to be heard and so far has been stonewalled. We the people who put you in office expect you to look into this matter promptly. See the article at <http://www.celebratehiltonhead.com/article/3028/are-you-paying-too-much-for-hurricane-insurance>
