The Federal Regulation and State Enterprise Index

A new project from the Mercatus Center at George Mason University ranks the 50 states based on the impact of federal regulation on each state's economy.

Federal regulation applies nationally but the effects of federal regulation are not the same in every state. Each state's economy includes a unique mix of industries, so federal policies that focus on specific sectors of the economy impact states in different ways.

Using RegData, authors Patrick McLaughlin and Oliver Sherouse created the FRASE Index (Federal Regulation and State Enterprise Index)

- Individual profiles of the 50 states that reveal trends in federal regulation that matter the most to each state.

- A scoring system that ranks the 50 states based on the relative impact of federal regulation on each state's unique mix of industries.
- A state perspective on how an act of Congress can transform the nature and distribution of the impact of federal regulation, using the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act as an example.
