Check out the Costa Mesa PD Installation

When the Costa Mesa Police Department realized their existing system for weapons storage was not adequate, they started looking for a different solution that would provide an extra layer of weapons storage security. They needed something to securely store long guns, extra handguns and ammo while still allowing for easy inventory of weapons. The Argos Bi-Fold Door Cabinets offered the solution they were looking for. Take a closer look at the Costa Mesa PD weapons storage installation and see how it all turned out.

Single-hinge Door vs Bi-Fold Door Product Comparison

You're faced with two weapons storage cabinets. One has single-hinge doors and the other has bi-fold doors, but which one is right for you and does it really matter as long as your weapons are secure? The answer to that depends on your situation and unique storage needs. Delve deeper into the differences between single-hinge and bi-fold to discover which is the right solution for you. Bi-Fold Weapons Cabinets Provide Several Benefits

The bi-fold door weapons cabinet is cost-effective, secure, and makes the most of your space. This cabinet not only holds firearms, but also has the capacity to hold ammunition, less lethal devices, tactical gear, helmets, body armor, etc. The bi-fold doors fully recede into the unit instead of swinging outward, so opening it takes up less space. It also comes with several different options and sizes to work within your space. Bi-fold door cabinets come in two widths, 21" and 42". Available heights are 24", 36", 45", 50", 62", 72", and 84".
