You need to let tour park officials know that you CANNOT make a person wirh medical disabilities wear a mask and you can't yell at consumers without at least asking if they have a condition that prevents them from wearing it. Some of your employees at gunting Island weren't just diligent. They were downright rude to my ptsd suffering daughter. Thanks for passing on info. For the record..... if a woman has ever been raped and had her mouth amd nose muffled.... she cant wear a mask without having flashbacks. Tennessee understands this and handles it differently. They ask do you have a medical condition preventing you from wearing a amsk? If not... will you please wear one. I think if you disseminated this info or asked park visitors to the campground prior to their arrival it would help. You also could give them a special card to hold up. Or they could provide medical documentation (which is actually illegal to ask for) just my feedback on recent visit.
