Please feel free to pull language from the governor about her trip to Nichols from her Facebook post.

Additionally, below, you will find background information about her trip and a link to photos from the trip you may use for your coverage.

On background:

The governor arrived in Nichols around midday where she met with Mayor Lawson Battle, Nichols Police Chief Mark Lewis, local leaders, SLED

Chief Keel, Adjutant General Livingston and DNR Director Colonel Taylor at the local emergency command post.

After meeting with the mayor, police chief, and local and state officials to discuss the towns ongoing additional support needs the governor toured damage of the area in a high water vehicle.

She then traveled to Mullins to meet with evacuated Nichols residents at their shelter in Mullins.
