Horry County Grand Jury Indicts Four Former Horry County Police Officers

(COLUMBIA, S.C.) South Carolina Attorney General Alan Wilson today announced the Horry County Grand Jury has returned indictments against Luke Green, Troy Allen Large, Todd Cox and Darryl Williams. All four gentlemen are former officers with the Horry County Police Department.

The indictments were issued Sept. 15, 2016, and the charges are as follows:

1. Troy Allen Large was indicted on six counts of Misconduct in Office and five counts of Criminal Sexual Conduct third degree.

The indictments allege that Large knowingly used coercion to engage in sexual battery with multiple victims and knowingly engaged in inappropriate relationships with victims of cases he was investigating.

2. Darryl Williams was indicted on nine counts of Misconduct in Office.

The indictments allege Williams knowingly failed to properly investigate multiple alleged crimes and that he used his county vehicle and county paid time to also work for a separate state agency.

3. Todd Cox was indicted on 16 counts of Misconduct in Office.

The indictments allege Cox knowingly closed cases without proper investigation and knowingly unassigned himself from cases allowing them to remain unassigned for a period of time.

4. Luke Green was indicted on 3 counts of Misconduct in Office.

The indictments allege that Green knowingly engaged in an inappropriate sexual relationship with an informant and made inappropriate sexual contact with a suspect during an arrest. Misconduct in Office is a misdemeanor offense punishable upon conviction by up to 10 years imprisonment on each count. Criminal Sexual Conduct Third Degree is a felony offense punishable upon conviction by up to 10 years imprisonment.

The case will be prosecuted by the Attorney General's Office.

Attorney General Wilson stressed all defendants are presumed innocent unless and until they are proven guilty in a court of law.
