Over the last four years, Governor Haley has been guided by the simple idea – an idea that guided Governor Carroll Campbell before her – that when you help a person find a job, you take care of a family. Tonight's debate reminded voters that Governor Haley's record – of record drops in unemployment, moving 20,000 South Carolinians from welfare-to-work and transforming the way we educate our students because they are our future workforce - is one our families can celebrate.
