A Sense of Place: Lecture by 701 CCA Artist in Residence, Frank Poor

When: Monday, November 24, 7 p.m.
Where: 701 CCA, 701 Whaley St., 2nd Floor, Columbia, SC 29201
Admission: Free

Frank Poor is an American artist born in Woodstock, GA in 1962. He received his BFA from Georgia State University and MFA from Rhode Island School of Design. He is an artist in residence at 701 CCA until December 21 preparing and creating new work for his January-February exhibition at the center.

For years now, I have returned to my native Southeast to photograph architecture and landscapes. These visits have been a way of reconnecting with my primary visual language. The resulting images are printed on various substrates and become the surfaces of three-dimensional architectural objects. The images of buildings are thus merged with their three-dimensional models. This presents two contradicting ways of telling, one through image and one through form. For me, that contradiction mirrors the slippage between our memories and what can be known about a place. That slippage has increasingly become the subject of my work. - Frank Poor

Building with Pictures: Building and Printmaking Workshop with Frank

Poor

When: Saturday, December 13, 10 a.m. – 2 p.m.
Where: 701 CCA at 701 Whaley's Market
Registration: Members: $30, non-members: $40

Frank Poor's workshop, Building with Pictures, combines the art of creating wood forms and image transferring. Participants are asked to collect images of buildings and places that have personal significance and bring them to the workshop. Using inkjet, printing, scanning and transfer techniques, these images will become the surfaces of a simple architectural form. The workshop will be held in the 701 Whaley's market space, December 13, 10 am - 2 pm. The age limit for the workshop is twelve unless accompanied by a adult. Lunch will be provided. Space is limited! Contact info@701cca.org for more information.
