I already posted it. "Thanks @SenatorTimScott for supporting Jeff Sessions. Your eloquence in the face of adversity is inspirational <https://t.co/CTMTDHIPk5>"

Actually, Twitter nor Facebook will allow the hyperlink to be a timestamp (8:42). Rather it will display the URL which is not as nice looking.

Inspirational is the right word. Catherine may be able to help you with the video, but do it however it's easiest for you.

They never emailed me back so I am reading up on some ways to create a link to a specific point in the video. I want the caption to read something like Thanks again Sen. Scott for supporting Jeff Sessions. Your eloquence in the face of adversity is moving/comforting/inspirational/encouraging." And add a link to a specific point in the video.

Did Catherine send you those radio show transcripts to put into Word?
